You Can't Beat The Dutch

President's Report Sue Hill

This summer seemed to have rushed by once again and we are already facing the start of the fall show season around here. We are in the midst of a pretty intense bout of heat and humidity in the midwest, which is hard on the rabbits. It will be interesting to see how long it takes to have litters show up after the bucks have been exposed to the higher temps. I'm always curious about our southern breeders and how they combat the heat, continue to have litters, and raise babies in the hot summer months. I remember an article that Wenton Carlton, a long time Dutch breeder and enthusiast, wrote on swamp coolers and keeping his rabbits comfortable in the Arizona heat. Anyone else out there have rabbitries that they cool in a manner such as this that you can share your thoughts on? It's always nice to be reading on different people in different areas of the country!

The ARBA convention is going to be here before we know it. The catalog should be available shortly so don't forget to put the deadline for entries on your calendar. With the fuel costs for traveling to KY, more breeders that I've talked with that are driving are sharing rides and taking less to show. It has been a well attended show the last two times it was held at the convention center so hopefully our Dutch numbers will not suffer too much. Those of you planning on being there may be willing to spend some time in the Dutch booth helping out. We will have a sign up poster available for time slots. It's a great way to meet new people and enjoy some time talking with other breeders who stop by the booth. There is already a great raffle item for the youth scholarship fund that has been donated so you'll have to come to the booth to check it out when you have a chance. This is a super way to support our youth that are continuing on in their education! If you have any items you'd like to donate to the club raffle, please consider doing so. We've had several super raffles over the years and they draw a lot of attention from all the breeders attending the show. Baskets are popular items filled with multiple goodies. If your state is known for a particular treat, and you have a local club that wants to contribute together, getting your donations together makes a spectacular display.

Since the NDS this spring, the board has been working with the email mode of communication on issues that have come up and need to be addressed in between the two meetings we have each year. Rick Billups and I hope to keep the directors informed of anything that comes to our attention we feel needs to go before the board. Hopefully, it will improve upon our meeting structure when we meet face to face each spring and fall. So far, it has gone fairly well, although it can be challenging working around everyone's jobs and vacations. I've very much appreciated the time they've spent responding and giving input. As I touched upon at the NDS board meeting, we have a timeline we are establishing to tackle tasks as they are identified. Since some are going to be time consuming and need to be coinciding with other events, they have either already have been put in motion or will be soon. Putting together a new guidebook and getting any standard changes through the approval process with ARBA is a big one. We are also chipping away at the Constitution and Bylaws, something that will take the approval of the voting membership before it can be actually applied to our club. You'll see the fruits of the hard work your committee members and board have been doing in the coming few years. If you are willing to help out in some manner, please consider doing so. Aside from being able to share your talents to help the club, you will get to know your fellow breeders that much more.

I'm sure many of you know Sara Lape, mom to Cody and Danny Lape, two of our very active kiddos that have done well during their youth showing days. Sara has agreed to be a liaison for our Youth and will be available to the youth representatives for any help they may need, as well as any of our kids at any point during the year. I had a chance to chat with her one night and she already has a few ideas up her sleeve for the future. She has this calm demeanor and is used to quietly helping out at the tables where ever she is needed. We will introduce her at ARBA so you all can put a face to her name. Thank you, Sara, for being there for the youth!

Have a wonderful rest of your summer and hope to see many of you in the fall at the ARBA Convention! If you have a director position that will be up for a vote in your district, please take the time to vote so that you have the person you want on the board working for you. See you in the fall-

Vice-President's Report Rick Billups

Well it's August 1st and it seems like summer has went by too quickly. I'm looking outside and still have several summer projects which aren't even close to being completed and others that will have to wait until next year. Luckily our rabbits aren't having any problems keeping their next boxes full. I've been fortunate to have plenty of litters with several keepers for the upcoming ARBA Convention in Louisville. The ARBA Convention will be upon us by the time you receive this issue of the Dutch Reporter so I hope everyone's ready for a good show. The ADRC doesn't have a local Dutch club organizing this year's convention so it will be up to everyone attending to help with the show on Monday and Tuesday. I know we all get busy visiting with old friends and looking for that special animal to add to our herd but we need to remember to pitch in and help.

I hope each of you submitted your vote for the new officers of the ADRC. It was great to see 2 of the 3 districts actually have 2 candidates to choose from instead of the typical no contest that we normally have. Unfortunately Ray Brewer was unable to submit his resume before the deadline due to unforeseen email problems or we would have had 2 candidates in all of the districts. I know our club has seen several changes in the last 2-3 years and I'm confident we will continue to see improvements to the foundation laid by our past President. There are several projects the Board is currently working on as well as committees have been created to review our Constitution and By Laws and begin working on our Guide Book. I'm excited to see so much positive attitudes in our club versus some of the bickering that takes part in so many clubs.

Sorry I don't have much to write about but the summer has been very slow and I haven't been to a show since the NDS. I was unable to attend the spring Ohio State Dutch show this year but look forward to the fall show which will be held in Clarksville, Ohio Thanksgiving weekend.

See you this fall,

Rick

ARBA National Convention
Louisville, Kentucky
October 26 - 30

Secretary - Treasurer's Report Barb Kline

By now you have received your election ballot and have it mailed back in to Sherry Patton, the election committee chairperson. I hope you all have exercised your right to vote because this is a very important function of a member of the ADRC.

In this mailing you also received a letter from our President, Sue Hill, explaining the need for donations for the awards for the upcoming ARBA Convention. Please send your donation to me and you will be recognized at the ADRC booth at the ARBA Convention and the awards breakfast. The awards this year will be purchased from John Neff. I am sure that John will put together a very attractive group of awards for the ADRC.

Speaking of awards, all reservations for the awards breakfast need to be in by October 1st. The ADRC breakfast will be on Wednesday, October 29th at 9:00 am at the Executive West Hotel. The Executive West Hotel is the ARBA Headquarters hotel and is located across the street from the convention center. The cost for the breakfast is $16 per adult and $14 per child age 12 and under. The breakfast will be a buffet featuring French toast, fluffy eggs, smoked bacon, link sausage, hash brown potatoes, creamy sausage gravy, and assorted cold cereals with milk. Reservations are required.

I hope that everyone has been successful with their litters for the upcoming ARBA Convention and hope to see everyone there. Let's make this another successful showing for the Dutch breed and hopefully see our breed be as successfully winning its group again!

85th ARBA National Convention October 26-30, 2008 Louisville, KY

We are not designating a host hotel for this year's convention. The breakfast banquet will be held on Wednesday October 29th at 9am at the Executive West Hotel. Breakfast will consist of French toast, fluffy scrambled eggs, smoked bacon, link sausage, hash brown potatoes, creamy sausage gravy and assorted cold cereals with milk. Reservation forms will be mailed in August with the election ballot and also printed in the July, August, September issue of the DR. Donations for awards are now being accepted. Please send donations to ADRC c/o Barb Kline 4664 S. Co. Rd. 591 New Riegel, OH 44853. All members donating will be acknowledged at the convention and at the awards breakfast.

I hope everyone is having a great summer. We just finished with our county fair in Butler County, Ohio. It started off hot and humid for the first three days then the rest of the week we had nice weather. The open rabbit show was on the first day of fair so it was on a very hot day, not many rabbits showed up, there was around 20 Dutch shown total and we had half of them.

I wish everyone good luck especially the youth at there local fairs this summer. It's a great way to spend time with family and friends. Its also a great way to promote the Dutch breed and recruit new members to the Dutch Club and the ARBA. We get calls every year from 4-H kids who have done well with their Dutch that they purchased from us. I believe this is a great way to promote the Dutch breed; sell quality animals to as many 4-Her's as possible so they have success at their local fairs and begin breeding and raising this wonderful rabbit on their own.

The long hot summer is winding down and now everyone's attention is probably selecting their juniors for the Convention at Louisville, KY on Oct. 26-30, 2008. I'm sure that this issue will have some information regarding the Convention.

On June 16, I underwent surgery for a total hip replacement. As of this writing, I'm getting along fine and continuing my therapy. Hopefully, I will not be walking with a limp in the future. Thanks to everyone for emails, cards and phone calls.

A concern I'm hearing regarding upcoming shows is costs and numbers of animals. With the economy slowing, cost of gasoline, feed prices rising, and high utility bills expected this winter, clubs are preparing to handle the unknown.

Most shows in my area have gone to a two-show day. I've heard some southern clubs are even looking at adding a third show in one day. It seems people polled have said that with 2-3 shows in a day, they will still travel distances and enter more animals. I know that I will be looking closely at attending small shows and especially single shows, as I must travel 3-4 hours to most shows

Lastly, please communicate with your Dutch Club officers and directors. Only through hearing from members can the club function effectively and necessary changes be made.

Wow, what a year for wild weather we're having this year. This winter it was bitter cold with record breaking snow totals that kept us home therefore missing several shows. Then, came a nice cool spring followed by the rains which were hard and heavy with no end in sight. We had more rain in June than any other month in history and we had this new record by the 12th of the month. I didn't hear of any rabbit barns being flooded out but I am sure it happened cause so many got hit. Finally, the rains can to an end and the hear of summer soon arrived and with it came a giant hatch of mosquitos.

This is our first summer at our new home and I'm learning new ways to do things. My rabbit barn used to be an old dairy barn with the cages hanging over the stanchions and mangers. It had cement walls with two walls imbedded in the side of a hill. It was nothing fancy but it was great for raising rabbits in summer. When the temperature rose into the nineties it would stay cool for a couple days. The only problem was when we had an extended period of hot weather. After two days the cement would warm up and then I'd rely on my two squirrel fans running under the cages to move the air.

Now the rabbit barn consists of a metal pole shed, so when it gets hot it's like an oven and all we have to comfort the rabbits is fans running under the cages and frozen two liter bottles. I hope this summer is the only summer that we have like this with hopes of building a barn this fall. Unfortunately my plans for design keep changing and my luck of winning the lottery doesn't get any better. I just can't imagine what it is like to raise rabbits in the south.

I'd like to report on a few shows but the weather has kept us from attending a few more recently. The shows around here keep having less and less Dutch being shown. We have the same amount of exhibitors, but they are bringing less Dutch to the shows and attending less shows the last couple years. I miss the days when there was over a hundred Dutch in open alone. Now we are lucky to do that at our state convention.

Congratulations to Valerie Worzella who spanked everyone at the Spring Fling show with a smokin' black senior doe who won best of breed both Saturday and Sunday as well as taking best in show on Saturday!

I know a lot of breeders give their does the summer off to reduce the stress during the heat but when the days cool down get workin' in the barn to keep the tables full and the show secretaries busy. Get a new breeder started in Dutch.

The Fair season is just finishing up here in Illinois, and it was a so-so summer for the rabbits. Some days were pretty warm, while there were a lot of nice days that stayed fairly cool.

I judged several of the Fairs this year, as usual, and must say that the numbers seemed to be less than normal. I would contribute that to not just the weather, but the economy as well. With $4.00+ per gallon gas prices, entry fees, possible motel expenses, food prices, etc. it has just become almost impossible to attend all of the shows that we have in past years. I know that a number of those showing in our area have simply stopped going to single shows, and will only frequent those that have multiple shows available. Sure there are double entry fees, but the expenses for travel, lodging, food, etc. are more affordable.

Louisville is just around the corner, and I hope there will be a great Dutch entry. With the location of the convention in an area that is accessible by many highly populated rabbit areas, I expect the numbers to be fairly high regardless of the economy. It seems the Breed National Shows and the ARBA Convention do not suffer like the local or state shows do.

I would like for everyone to make an evaluation of their own breeding/showing program. Are you producing better animals in your litters? Are you making progress on the showing tables? If not, then I suspect something is missing in your breeding program. After taking a good look at ours, we decided it was time to turn over the breeding animals we had and replace them, as we were not getting many litters, and those we were getting were not improving. Norma had the good fortune to win a buck and doe on the raffle at the NDS, and we purchased a Steel doe from Rick Lehmann. The blue doe won in the raffle missed her first time, but is due the end of this week (and has a belly full), and the Steel doe from Rick L. has a litter of 7 on her. She is raising them in grand fashion, and there are a few in the litter that look pretty good to me. I have never seen a doe (in my 30+ years of raising Dutch) that has stayed in such excellent condition after kindling and nursing 7 kits. We could have pulled her from the litter any day at all and put her on the tables in a fur class, and I am sure placed at the very top of the class. Thanks Rick, this doe has a home for as long as she wants it. BTW... the buck the doe was bred to was the one Norma won in the raffle and was from Ron Russ. Needless to say, we are excited about our future prospects and breeding program, if only some of the 7 kits turn out to be does !!!

I hope to see you all in Louisville.

Welcome to Kansas!

The Kansas Dutch Rabbit Club is very excited to be hosting the 2009 NDS.

The show will be held in the New Rabbit Barn at the Kansas State Fair Grounds in Hutchinson, KS on April 24 – 26, 2009. It is a big bright building with everything under one roof from youth activities, sell coops, and restrooms.

Bob Bergene and committee have been busy hiring our judges and I'm sure they are getting some great Dutch judges.

We are currently looking for sponsors for the awards, for $25 you can sponsor the award of your choice. If you are interested please let me know or check out our website – www.kansasdutchclub.com - for information. We will be accepting ads for the catalog soon- watch the website for the information.

Entry fees have been set for $6 per entry and $3 for fur. We will also have sell coops available for $1.50 each.

There are some outstanding attractions located in the area: The Kansas Comosphere and Space Center (www.cosmo.org), Kansas Underground Salt Museum (www.undergroundmuseum.org), and down the road the Amish community of Yoder (www.yoderkansas.com). So come early and enjoy yourself in Hutchinson, KS.

We are busy planning many fun events for the weekend, so we hope everyone can join us for NDS 2009.

If you have a question you wish to pose for either the "Ask the Judge" or "Ask the Breeder" columns, just e-mail or mail your question to me. These columns are an avenue where you can ask questions and advice from the professionals in our organization. For the judge's column, you may ask questions such as judging criteria, presentation on the show table, what it takes to become a judge, and proper etiquette as a few examples. For the breeder's column, questions can range from feeding, conditioning, breeding techniques, rabbit care, how to improve your herd, anything that people who have been breeding Dutch rabbits for many years might have suggestions on. If you would like to participate on the panels, just drop me an e-mail and I will add your name to our groups. The questions will be e-mailed and each participant has the option to answer or not. This is the chance to get a lot of viewpoints from across the country!

ASK THE JUDGE

Even though the standard of perfection awards 25 points to type and 50 points to markings, when it comes down to your decision, would a poorly typed, but exceptionally well-marked Dutch beat an exceptionally-typed rabbit with a few marking flaws? And on the subject of markings, if two animals are equal in type, would a rabbit with a couple of minor marking flaws or one major flaw do better on the table?

From Kevin Hooper:

When it comes to comparing type and markings on a Dutch, you must keep in mind one thing, the most points on a Dutch go to body type. Now, collectively adding all of the markings together, then they do add to more points than type.

With that being said, I believe you judge type first, then find the ones with the markings on those with the best type. Based on this, the answer to this month's question would be the poorly typed, well marked Dutch would not win over a nicely typed Dutch with a few marking flaws.

When considering a Dutch with one major flaw versus one with a couple of minor ones, most likely the one with the minor faults would win, but that depends on the severity and location of the major flaw on the other one?

Remember also, type is not just body shape, it is head (round and set close to the shoulders), ears (thick and well furred, carried erect and together), eyes (bold), good medium bone, and a thick hide. These features make up the type of the Dutch, and in my opinion, make the Dutch, when all are present. Without these other parts of type, you just have colored Florida White with markings.

From Ray Brewer:

Boy, that's an easy one! Before I give you my opinion, let me say this, most of our exhibitors are also breeders and it's part of a judge's job to teach and help them improve their herd. To reward a "poorly typed" Dutch is to re-enforce a poor culling practice. For me, the premise of the question is all wrong. A "poorly typed" Dutch would never make it all the way up to second unless it was a very small class class. On the flip side, I remember a superbly typed black junior doe at the 2003 NDS that only had fair markings. Even though she was the one I would have wanted to take home to breed, I could only get her up to the top ten. She did place higher than 30 or 40 with better markings. Last thought on this subject, poor type is one of the things I use in making my first cut in a large class.

Assuming that color, fur and condition are also equal, I would probably go with the one with two minor flaws over the one with one major fault. Here's what I consider major marking faults. 1. Any ragged marking or long runs or color drags, 2. High cheek(s), 3. Long stops. These faults are very hard to "breed out" and the animal should be culled. It would have to have several outstanding qualities to stay around. Minor faults: Small run or drag, low (but somewhat rounded) cheeks, and slight bias to any marking.

ASK THE BREEDER

What methods do you use to keep kits warm and alive when they are born in the dead of winter?

From Kevin Hooper:

I have used a few different methods to keep kits alive in the dead of winter. The best thing is to have does that build great nests and have their babies in the boxes. If you have this, then the severity of cold does not seem to matter.

However, since we cannot always control this, I use heat lamps to provide some localized heat over the nest boxes. I have an unheated barn, which I can keep about 10-15 degrees above the outside temperature. Hanging a heat lamp over two cages so it can provide some warmth to two or even four nestboxes (if you have a back to back cage set-up) will make a big difference in the winter survival rate. If I do this, I will place a board in the pen for the doe to rest on, otherwise she may want to bask in the warmth and do so in the nest box.

I have had a heated nursery in the past which I kept at about 40 degrees. This worked well and I had good winter survival rates.

One thing to be wary of is the litter size. A litter of two or three, even in the best nest will not do as well as the warmth of several other kits to cuddle with! So, you may consider combining a couple of litters as long as the doe is capable of nursing that many.

From Ray Brewer:

Down here in South Carolina our winters are so mild that only January presents much of a problem for us. I use a moderately small nestbox for our Dutch (10W X 12L X 8H) with a 1/4 X 1/4 wire bottom. For nesting material we use Bermuda grass hay. I believe that the smaller diameter of this hay is a better insulator as it can be packed closer and denser than a larger shafted hay like oat. If the weatherman predicts a night below freezing, I put a thin sheet of insulation in the bottom of the box. (If you do this be sure to pull it out after 3-4 days - that stuff will prevent moisture from getting away from the kits - we have to keep them dry to keep them warm.) I usually put the box in the cage on day 30. This prevents the doe from starting too early or soiling the box.

Cutting back a little on the doe's ration for a couple of days before kindling will make birthing a little easier for her. Of course the doe is the most important part of any live birth, especially in cold weather. She has got to have them, clean them, and cover them up in a hurry.

If I have a litter I am really counting on, I get up early and check that box early and often. Be sure to remove any dead babies as they will quickly become little ice cubes in your nice warm nestbox.

From Allan Gerhart:

We use several methods in the winter time to keep the kits alive. A wooden nest box with lots of straw helps keep the kits insulated from the cold temperatures. We turn on the lights at night which includes a couple of heat lamps that keeps the barn above freezing. We also close up the windows and doors during the winter months this cuts down on drafts and keeps the cold out. And when it really gets cold we turn on an electric heater to prevent the kits and water from freezing.

As long as the does pull fur and have the kits in the nest box we usually have good luck raising them in the dead of winter. I would advise breeding your more experienced does in the during the winter months and save your younger 1st time does for warmer days in the early spring.

From Dennis, Barb & Megan Kline:

During the winter we do not use anything to keep the kits warm. We have our barn heated to 40-45 degrees and then hope the mother pulls plenty of fur and keeps them covered and fed. We actually cull mothers who do not do a good job of mothering to also insure that we do not need to keep a close eye on things. We think that using heat lamps, especially if kept too close, are not a good thing. Sometimes it actually keeps the doe out of the nest box because she gets too hot while trying to nurse the kits. We hope you all are having good luck with your litters and hope to see you all in Louisville, KY.

From Bob Bergene:

The question of how you keep kits warm and alive when they are born in cold weather is one that I leave up to the doe. In my rabbitry, I heat the barn to 40-42 degrees to keep the water from freezing. Therefore when I put the nest box in with the doe 2 days before kindling, I prepare it the same way throughout the year. I like to use broom or prairie hay with a small amount of pine shavings mixed in. I then leave it up to mother nature to take its course. If she is a good mother, she will pull fur and line the nest and have the babies in the box, (not on the wire). If she has kindled and pulled fur after an hour or so, I will pull some fur from her in the area of the chest and the front shoulder. Many breeders have used heat lamps, light bulbs, warming pads, etc. successfully but I choose just to let the doe take care of the litter as best she can. Occasionally I will lose a litter in the winter if they are born on the wire, despite the heated rabbitry. 42 degrees is not enough to keep them warm and alive when born on the wire in the winter time. I love the summer time, when I can come out and find a litter kindled on the wire and just throw them into the nest box and they will be just fine! In the winter and even summer time, I will have a doe that insists on having her nest on the opposite side of the cage where I put the box. She will take all of bedding material out of the box and place on the opposite side. I always try to put the box on the opposite side of the cage where she goes to the bathroom. But when I see the doe taking the nest box material out of the box and piling it up on the opposite side and pulling fur there, I use the old double box trick! I put two nest boxes in side by side and she will have a choice of the right box or the left box. The doe will end up having to decide on one or the other. Good luck, and I hope you raise 100% of the Dutch babies born.

From Theresa Schwandt:

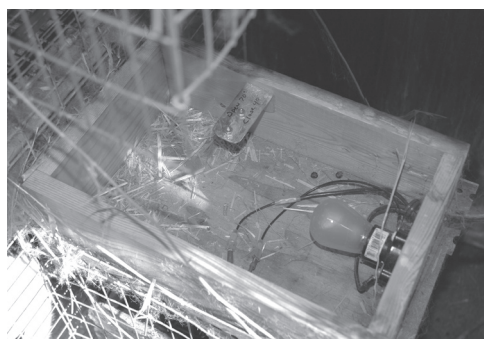

During the winter is actually a great time to raise rabbits. Well, it has to be, since most of your NDS prospects are born during this time. The does do much better in the cold, raising bunnies than the heat of summer. First of all I work on saving extra fur all summer long when it is not needed. This is important since sometimes the does will prefer to keep their winter coat on and not pluck as much as they should. I just take some of this fur and add where needed. Don't worry, your doe won't mind. Another quick fix for this is cotton balls. You can pull them apart and "fluff" them and add 'em to the nest if you don't have any extra saved fur. Some breeders do make use of nestbox heaters, but I have never tried one. Our barn is an unheated pole building for now and it gets cold. Another recommendation is to keep does that have the very best mothering instincts. I have had litters born in subzero conditions and my experienced does have no problems saving the hole litter. This is quite amazing, but credit must be given where due - Mothering instinct is so important. During the winter when we have litters due, which is most of the time, we are out there checking those does even late at night right before bed. Sometimes it means playing a game of Rock-Paper-Scissors to decide who gets the honors of venturing out into the dark and cold...thank goodness I am better at that game than Dan:-) You have to be attentive and frequently check those nestboxes to make sure that your kits are in the warm nest of fur, not in the front of the box alone and cold or even worse on the wire. Good luck with your winter litters, but keep in mind that winter is a very unnatural time for rabbits to reproduce so you will lose some, but maybe you will produce the next NDS BOB!

From Julie Hume:

I wanted to share something that our family has created to give our babies the best chance of survival. We have only been breeding Dutch for about six years. The first year we did not have a very good rate of survival. The second year we would bring the moms into the basement to kindle, but then had the problem of deciding when to move everyone back out to the barn while it was still cold. It was also more difficult to keep things clean and limited how many litters we could raise over the winter. Insulating the barn helped, but we still lost the newborns if it was really cold. We asked a lot of questions and eventually decided to try a nest box with a sub floor that contained a light bulb. The first attempt, we tried two bulbs, a 25 watt and a 15 watt, thinking that would really keep the babies warm whether they were in the front or back of the box. Well, let me tell you, two bulbs are too hot, don't try it. We didn't try this method again until the following year, using one 12 watt bulb at the back of the box. This was successful; the litters seemed to do well as long as there were three or more babies.

About this same time we also tried creating a bowl affect in the bottom of the nest box using cardboard. We had problems with the kits getting separated in the nest box and losing one or two. Dave came up with the idea of forming a bowl so that gravity would help keep the kits in one area of the nest box. This has been very successful if the doe doesn't rip it all out before she gives birth.

Another problem we had experienced was when a very young baby jumped out of the nest box or was dragged out hanging onto a nipple. If not discovered very quickly, the baby was a goner. I came up with the idea of dropping the nest box down so it was just above the floor of the cage. We bought a triple stacked cage and Dave started modifying it to accommodate a dropped nest box. So it did not interfere with the lower cage, the nest boxes had to be built on the outside of the cage. The nest boxes also had to be easy for us to remove, so the babies could be inspected periodically without have to go in through the cage itself and run the risk of the doe ripping our hand off. And then he created a door that would drop down when the nest box was removed so the doe would stay in the cage. These nest boxes have the false floor and the light bulb at the back. The bulb is unplugged when the weather is warm enough and with the box on the outside of the cage, there is not the chance the does can chew on the cords.

As long as the doe births in the nest box, our success rate of raising babies is almost 100% even during the coldest months. I do have to qualify that we keep our barn temperature at 35 degrees during the winter. Just with the insulation and body heat of the rabbits, we can maintain this temperature as long as the outside temperature is about 10 degrees. If it falls below that, we use a heater on a thermostat to maintain the temperature.

Questions for the October/November/December issue of the Dutch Reporter

We would like to see more suggestions, opinions, and views for our breeder's and judge's questions. Therefore, the questions for the upcoming issue are listed below. We welcome any of the members of the American Dutch Rabbit Club to submit an answer to the breeder's question and any judge to submit an answer to the judge's question. Entries must be postmarked by September 26th or emailed by September 29th.

Breeder's question: What methods do you use when you find newborn kits that are cold and close to death to try and restore warmth?

Judge's question: I had a rabbit disqualified once for a spot in the nose. This rabbit had been shown before and after this disqualification without the mark being discussed. To see the mark, one has to pull the nostrils apart. I agree it is a spot, but the Standard of Perfection states that the "spot or spots must be plainly visible". At what point should a rabbit be disqualified for a spot on the nose or lips?

In the Mid Atlantic region (Ct., NY, Pa., Md., Va.) the spring show season usually ends in early to mid June. The fair show season begins in July and runs through mid September. One of the last shows of the spring season is the double show at State College, Pa. This is the home of Penn State University. The show is held in the state of the art Agriculture Arena, which is right across the street from Beaver Stadium which is the home of the Penn State Nittany Lions. The youth Dutch exhibitors usually try to make this show an annual event. It is the last time we see each other for the summer and the ice cream from Penn State's Creamery is fantastic (especially the Peachy Paterno). As usual, we had a great show with nearly 100 quality Dutch crossing the table in each of the two shows (the results can be found in the show results area). The photo (taken by my dad) (from left to right) is Nate Graybeal (Pa), Daulton Lape (Pa), Kevin Athey (Md), Marissa Wells (Md), Bethany Brown (Ct.), Elizabeth Wiltshire (Pa), Dylan Lape (Pa), and Lauren Dean (Md). Look us up at the fall shows, we would love to get more youth involved in the Dutch breed.

by Autumn Dennistoun, District 3

Hi Everyone!

My name is Autumn Dennistoun and I would like to introduce myself to you as your new Youth Representative for ADRC's District 3. I live in Arlington, Washington on 32 acres. I have been raising and showing Dutch rabbits since late 2002 in Black, Blue and Chocolate with a few Torts here and there. I also raise English and French Angoras and Blanc De' Hotots. I am the '05,'06,'07 WSRBA Rabbit Princess, the '06 ARBA Rabbit Princess and the '08 WSRBA Rabbit Duchess. We just finished up with our annual state convention. Garret Todd, a fellow Dutch breeder from District 3 was crowned WSRBA Prince. Please send information for me to include in my reports to dutchbaby95@aol.com.

California Dutch Breeder wins in Princess Royalty Contest.

California Dutch breeder, Eleanor Cumming of Sanger, California recently became Princess at the California State Rabbit & Cavy Convention in Fresno, California 4-5-08. This is Eleanor's 1st year as a member of the Fairmont 4-H Club and she is in the third grade at Fairmont Elementary School (Home of the Mighty Spartans). She raises Dutch, Mini Rex and Californians for meat pens.

The Royalty contest involved submitting an application prior to the State Convention. At the convention she had to compete in the judging contest, a rabbit test and the rabbit breed ID test. Her favorite part of the Royalty contests was when she competed in the judging contest because according to her "I love rabbits!"

Besides Eleanor's rabbits she has horses, calves, dogs and cats. She is planning on raising a hog to show this year at the Big Fresno Fair.

In addition to her rabbit project, Eleanor is active in the swine and beginning 4-H projects. She has big plans for her rabbit project. She hopes to go to the ARBA Convention this October and show some of her best rabbits and to also compete in the Royalty Contest. In her free time she likes to ride horses, bikes and play soccer.

Eleanor's rabbitry name is 4-C's and she and her family are building a website at www.gotdutch.com. Congratulations Eleanor, keep up the great work!

California Dutch Breeder wins in Duchess Royalty Contest.

California Dutch breeder, Spencer Downey of Winton, California recently became Duchess at the California State Rabbit & Cavy Convention in Fresno, California 4-5-08. This is Spencer's 8th year as a member of the Ballico-Cressey 4-H Club and she is a Freshman in High school, but she is taking some college classes at Merced Junior College. She raises Dutch, Silvers, Californians and New Zealands.

The Royalty contest involved submitting an application prior to the State Convention. At the convention she had an oral interview of the items on her application. She took a 95 question written test, and then she had to judge a class of rabbits, which happened to be a class of Blue Dutch. Lucky for her and of course she scored 100%. She then judged a class of Black American cavies which she scored 97%. She also had to compete in the breed identification contest which had 25 breeds represented.

Besides Spencer's rabbits she is also active in raising cavies (Americans and American Satins) and Poultry (Old English Game Bantams, White Bantam Leghorns, Black Bantam Cornish). Her other 4-H projects include dog care, beef, community pride, Countywide Tech Team, and she is the Teen Leader for the Rabbits, Cavies, and County Wide Poultry projects in her club. She enjoys competing in knowledge bowl competitions. At the California State Fair 2007, her Senior Cavy and Canine Bowl Teams both won 1st place!

Besides her animal and 4-H projects she is also very active in golfing. She is a member of the Stoneridge Christian Golf team and golf's 3 times a week. Don't we all wish we could do that! Her golf team is undefeated in their league. Her favorite golf course is Lake Don Pedro.

Spencer hopes to become a Professor of Animal Science after College. Congratulations Spencer on your accomplishments and thanks for all of your help in supporting Dutch in California. Keep up the great work!

It has come to our attention that a number of shows at which ADRC members have exhibited for the 2008 Sweepstakes year did not have sanctions issued for them.

If we do not receive a sanction request for a show, we are unable to issue sanctions for it. NO sanctions will be issued for shows AFTER the show has occurred. All sanction requests must be postmarked PRIOR to the show date, and accompanied by the appropriate fees in order to be honored.

You may wish to contact the show sponsor, or us prior to a show to insure it has an ADRC sanction.

Reflections - On the 2008 NDS

by John Graybeal

A 12 and ½ hour car ride from Lebanon County, Pa. to Bloomington, Il., plus three days away from the farm, provides a lot of time for reflection. Making that trip twice in 4 days (1 round trip to the NDS) makes for a great deal of time to reflect. Reflect on what? Well, I am going to share some of my reflections with you. These are in no particular order, I am writing them down just the way they role through my head.

What a wonderful country we live in. It is physically beautiful. What wonder countryside we watched sail past our truck's windows on the way out and back. But the beauty of this country is more than skin deep. What a wonderful country we live in, where 2 fathers and their 3 sons can load 16 rabbits, plus 12 empty coops (just in case), clothing and supplies and head out on a "men's weekend" adventure. It is never a dull moment when the Graybeal boys (Dad and Nate) and the Lape boys (Dad and Dylan and Daulton) get together. We even had an amateur weatherman in the truck. Every dark cloud in Indiana and Illinois turned into a potential tornado in Daulton's mind. You'll never fall asleep at the wheel with an excited young man in the back yelling "is that one, is that one....." every time he saw a dark cloud. It came to my mind..... enjoying the trip is more important than the winning (if you're lucky) once you get there. After this trip, I will always try to enjoy the travel more.

Honor, honesty and what we try to teach our children.... raising and showing rabbits is, to most people, just a pleasant hobby. Now believe me, I like to be competitive; maybe even more than most. I do believe in teaching my children that if you are going to do something, do it the best you are capable of doing it. But I had a lesson this year that really made me reflect.

While Nate and the Lape boys were off "Dutch" shopping on Friday evening, I was doing a little "Dutch" shopping of my own. I found a nice little Black Doe that I was interested in. I knew the animal's family and knew it should work with Nate's stock. I also knew the family that was selling the doe. They are a nice young family with some very good stock. Well, I bought the doe! I was so proud of myself. Later that night, I mentioned to Nate that I had bought a nice little doe. I told him about it and his response to me was "Dad...did you know that doe had a freckle"! Boy did I feel like a heel. Naturally I had not even checked, should have but did not. Well, I thought, my mistake.

Saturday after the judging, the father of the family from whom I had bought this doe, came over to talk to me. He said he had some bad news. He told me the doe had been DQ'ed for a freckle. Then the impressive thing happened. He offered me my money back!!!! What an honorable man. To make a long story short, I left it up to Nate. He agreed we did not want to add that problem to our herd. The father gave me the money back.

So, what really came out of that interaction? A lot of really good stuff. First, I met an honorable man and made a friend for life! Second, this man taught his children a valuable lesson on honor, honesty and personal integrity. Third, I taught Nate about the same. To that father (and you know who you are....) you made a lasting impression on this old man. Thank you, sir and may you and your family be truly blessed. I know that Nate and I were. I feel we have made a friend for life. I wish we could all behave like this man did.

On the long ride home on Sunday everyone in the truck was relishing in their thoughts of a wonderful trip. During the quiet times (when everyone else was sleeping) I reflected on this NDS. Had it been a success? For the Graybeal family, I would have to say YES! I remembered why I have been raising and showing rabbits for over 40 years. It is not the winning, but the people I have met and the fun I have experienced with my family and friends. And I learned something valuable and had my hope restored. There are honorable men in the world still. This was the best rabbit show I had attended in a long time.

ED: John had submitted this article for inclusion in the last DR, and space did not allow for its printing. Thanks John, for the article and your patience.

WELL LAID PLANS OF SHOW PERSONNEL.....

by Susan Jock

Time to plan the next show! Double or single with specialties? Vote says single with specialties. Specialty club secretaries are contacted. Sanctions are sent for. Buildings reserved. Judges hired. Meetings are held. New members join. All is going well. Until the week before the show. It all starts with a call from Dutch Specialty Show Secretary, Kim. Her vehicle is dying a thousand deaths. She might not make it but will try to get the paperwork here. Okay. We'd rather have her here, but we'll manage. Meanwhile the snow melts, it rains some more. In my numerous trips to town in that last week before Show Day I keep thinking, "Boy am I glad the show equipment isn't at my house this year. We'd have a time getting a truck and trailer up to the barn with this mud! And, since my tractor just blew it's water pump, we couldn't use it to tow out stuck vehicles or carry the equipment out." One disaster avoided. As the week progressed I should have got a clue that something was up. Every errand I ran took way more time than it should have. At the Post Office the woman ahead of me was trying to mail vitamins to a sick friend. The number of forms she had to fill out, ID and receipts she had to produce was astounding. Half an hour later I gave up and went and stood in another line. Only to get behind a guy who didn't speak English very well. Eventually I made it out of the Post Office. At the next stop, the person ahead of me in line decided not to buy the stuff the cashier just rang up and walked out. The cashier didn't know how to void the sale. He had to call a manager who must have been in a store in the next town. Half an hour later I'm finally on my way again. Next stop. The store didn't have what I needed but a call confirmed that the one across town did. Another half an hour wasted and another stop added to my list. After all this running, van needed fed. Standing in line at the gas station to pre-pay. Another guy comes in, they speak broken English to each other, and the cashier waves him off. Guy grins and leaves. When I go to pay, cashier tries to tell me what I owe him. I tell him I'm on the outside pump and haven't pumped yet because I have to pre-pay on that pump. Eventually he realizes that he just told a guy to drive away without paying, thinking he was the owner of my vehicle. Another half hour gone. And so it went. Finally home, mission accomplished! Phone rings. It's the meat rabbit buyer, finally. "Got any rabbits for me?" After the last 2 runs being cancelled, "You bet I do! When?" This week! Mmmm, even though I don't really have time, I'll do it, before they change their mind again! Okay, got to sort rabbits. By the time I get chores done tonight it'll be pretty late. Tomorrow, after I get wood cut.

Next day while hauling in wood I notice a stranger up behind the barn. But before I can investigate, the phone rings. I get back outside and start walking out to meet my neighbor who just arrived with hay. As I'm walking I notice a sheriff's car going by real slow. I meet my neighbor who is watching the place across the road where I see 3 sheriff's cars. Then he tells me that he just saw them put a guy on the ground, handcuff him, and put him in the first car. As we watch, they search the barn and other outbuildings. Eventually another neighbor comes back and asks if we've seen anybody on foot. I said, "Yes" and describe the guy. Turns out he was the one they just arrested. And they were looking for 2 more thought to be in the woods, my woods! My neighbor brought the hay on back and I decided I was through cutting wood for the day. I retrieved my chainsaw and gear from the woods, told Mom what was going on, and started chores. I wanted to be in and have everything locked up before dark. No rabbit sorting got done that day! Now it's Friday, the rabbit sorting is done, all supplies are ready to go for the show. Time to deliver the rabbits, pick up the keys to the showroom, and pick up the P.A. system. Rabbits loaded, headed out, should be back in plenty of time for set-up. Half way out the lane I discover my neighbor had been over with a tractor to get a big round bale of hay, churning up the mud as he turned in and out of the field. Traction control kicks in, van starts rocking, progress slows then stops entirely. Okay, so I'm stuck, no need to panic. I begin to rock the van back and forth, some progress is made. However, the left side seems to be sinking further and I can't steer out of it. Then as I rock backwards I hear something. I stop, stick my head out the window, and realize the bumper is at a right angle to the van. I get out, say a few choice things and whine a little. I can only go forward now. So I do. And the bumper snaps back into place. Can't even tell where it was bent. Having a plastic bumper is a good thing after all! However, it's hanging a bit low. A bungee cord soon fixes that. Back to the business of getting out of here. Soon I quit making progress, but before I spin too much I get out. And sink up to my knees. I decide to unload the 67 rabbits in the hope that lightening the load will help. And call Mom. She comes and drives, I push. Van keeps sinking. Mud is now up past the bottom of the door. Plan B. I walk back to the barns. Grab the rubber conveyer belt originally acquired to keep the show cattle's knees clean and attempt to roll it up and carry it. Proved to be bigger than me. So I commence to dragging it. Got to say it doesn't slide real well on damp gravel. Meanwhile, tried to call neighbors for a tow but everybody works during the day. Time's running away. Which club member is closest to me? I make a couple calls and find someone who can come get the check for building rental and go pick up the key and P.A. system. They arrive just as I arrive with the belt. I walk out to meet them, fearful of them joining me in my quest for China. With them safely on the way, I line up the belt, have Mom back the van off a bit, tuck the belt under the front tire on the low side and dig out around the tires. Okay, ready. Mom puts it in gear, the tire starts to climb on the belt, the van moves forward. This is working! Then the tire spins and the belt is suddenly accordion pleating under the van. Took a fair amount of digging to free the belt from the mud and undercarriage. My phone falls into the mud. Caught it before it disappeared, stuck it back in my pocket. Got belt straightened out, tried to get it started under back tire. Dig remaining tires out. Phone falls in mud again. Wipe it off, give to Mom who has deeper pockets and isn't digging. Try again. More progress but seems to be up against something. Start digging. Found decent sized rock. Ended up on my knees, nearly up to my elbows in the mud trying to break the suction on that rock. Finally wrestled that free. Also found a board that wanted to stick up and impede progress. Who knew what you might find in a mud hole! Made more progress but then wheel spun for a repeat of belt pleating. More digging. By the time I was able to get a hold of a neighbor to pull me out, I had traveled 2 van lengths in 4 hours. They came, tow strap broke. Twice. I have a nice heavy chain, back at the barn. This time I went straight over the fields and crawled under the fence. I was already filthy and it was the shortest route. I returned hooked up the chain and was finally on my way to terra firma. We didn't stop 'till we hit the road. Rabbits are still sitting in the grass along the lane. It took 2 trips with the truck but they were loaded back in the van and I was on the road for the fairgrounds by 6 p.m. Everybody showed up and we started to set up for the show. Things were going well. Then we began to notice that some of the equipment was covered in bird poop. So back outside it went. Someone went home and got a hose, scrub brushes, and disinfectant. This is the middle of March. The water was mighty cold by the time the last item was rinsed. I went to call the meat buyer and tell her what was up. Then I realized my phone was still in Mom's pocket. She had returned to the house instead of coming with me. So I borrowed a phone and called Mom so she could call the meat buyer. Only to find that Kim's husband had called to ask me to go pick up the Dutch show paperwork. Kim had borrowed a vehicle to come to the show. As she was driving to the show one wheel came off. She was on a fairly straight exit ramp at the time so wasn't going too fast. Neither she nor the rabbits were hurt. But still it's a bit of a shock when your wheel comes flying off, proceeds down the road ahead of you, and hits and damages the vehicle of an elderly man! Later we compared notes and figured that we were both standing outside our vehicles having a fit at approximately the same time! What I didn't know when her husband called was that she was on the Goshen exit ramp. I thought she was somewhere in LaPorte! With my bumper bouncing along on a bungee cord I wasn't planning on driving around a lot, especially when I didn't know where I was going! Mom told him about our day. He said he was coming to get his wife and might drop the paperwork off at the fairgrounds if I was still there. We finished the set-up by 9 p.m. I took another look at the van and found I could re-position the bumper so it was more solid. Mom called on someone's phone and said the meat buyer was still willing to take the rabbits that night or she could catch up with me the next day. I didn't want to have to haul the rabbits back home, transfer them to the neighbor's pickup, drive them back the lane, put them away then repeat the process the next day. So I headed down the road to meat buyer. I dropped off the rabbits, arrived back at my neighbor's house about Midnight. He said I could use his truck to travel my lane. So I began transferring the empty carriers as quietly as I could. Only to set off my van's alarm. I tried not to swear (my neighbor is Mennonite with a house full of young children) as I scrambled to find the button to shut off the racket. This started the dog barking and the rooster crowing. I stopped moving and everybody quieted down. I resumed loading and strapped everything down because it wasn't going to be a smooth ride through the mud. I climbed up in the cab. Only to discover the dome light didn't work and there was a big hole in the seat. At this point I started laughing. I don't know why it suddenly seemed so funny. I fumbled around in the dark, found the keys and all the right buttons, and got it started. Thank goodness it didn't have an alarm or I'd of set it off too! I perched on the edge of the seat and feeling like a little kid too short to reach the pedals, put it in gear and headed home. Fortunately I had noted earlier that day how to engage the 4 wheel drive. I'd never have made it without it. Home at last! First thing I did was eat. I'd missed lunch and supper. Then I went out to unload the carriers and do chores. Mom was up to get ready for the show before I was done. She talked about not taking rabbits. But I had to take a couple I had sold and besides, I didn't unload all those carriers for nothing! I just started filling carriers. She filled a couple carriers too. I re-arranged the misc. stuff in the back of the truck so the carriers would sit level this time, loaded the rabbits, and strapped them in. Then loaded the show paperwork, door prize items, 8 cheesecakes for the kitchen, etc. By the time I was done you couldn't have found room to put a mouse in that truck! Out the lane we went, over to the neighbor's house, transferred everything over to the van without setting off the alarm this time, and off to the fairgrounds. We arrived a bit later than I had planned but there just weren't enough hours in the night to make up for all the glitches. One of my friends met me at the door and helped unload show paperwork. Then I dropped the cheesecakes off at the kitchen. Came back and unloaded the rabbits. Mom had got our entries printed up but hadn't had time to stick the labels on the cards so my friend did that. Then I discovered that Kim had made it. The car was on a dolly and she looked tired. Between the accident and worrying about her rabbits spending the night in an unlocked car at the motel, she hadn't slept well. However, we finally got her husband to a rabbit show. I told him I could fix him up with a Flemish Giant and he'd fit right in. I don't think he was buying it. He still thinks we're crazy, LOL!

Some people griped a little that the show didn't start right at 9 a.m. But most people pitched in and lent a hand. My fellow breeders were kind enough to show my rabbits. Julie Hume got quite a workout showing my Dutch as I brought some of each variety. Me, well I was the show superintendent. I hadn't had any sleep or breakfast either and was walking on feet sore from spending 12 hours in wet boots. I concentrated on not biting anybody's head off, sorting cards, getting the show up and running smoothly, keeping the judges busy and happy, and chasing kids out of the snowbanks, off the chutes, and back into the showroom. Considering my week, I was pretty lenient on the kids. The rest of the members took entries, sorted cards, made announcements, answered questions. In other words, pulled together and made it work. I was so thankful to have a group that rolled with the punches and forged ahead instead of wanting to blame someone because life's not perfect. I did nearly come unglued near the end of the day when an exhibitor came over and complained rather stridently that they didn't have any writers for their breed that knew anything. I nearly told her that if she knew that, then why didn't she write. But it was the end of the day and they probably weren't happy that they were the last breed. So I called for a writer. After the show was over I remembered that 2 of our rabbits had won BOB and neither of us even thought of putting them up for 4 class! Maybe Kim's husband is right, because at the end of the day we were already talking about our next show!

So the next time you are at a show and things seem a little slow to start out or has a hitch or two, remember my story. There may be problems you don't know about. Offer to help. You may earn someone's gratitude. Beats earning their ire!

ED: Thanks for a very informative article Susan! This is some good material for our members to digest.

The shows would run soooo much better.....
IF they would only listen to ME !!!!

RABBIT TALES

This column spotlights special stories, what could be called human/rabbit interest articles. I am looking for stories about special rabbits or special people. Rabbits that we will always remember, not the ones that won at every show or took a dozen BOB; but the rabbits that have touched the heart. Or perhaps a person who has gone the extra mile to help someone else. Please share your special stories with us, about your rabbits or mentors in your life. Please e-mail or mail to:

“Hi, my name is Speedy. When I was younger two girls would take me and my brothers and sisters to play. Then one day we were all put in a carrier and when we were let out I saw a cage so I ran to it. When I got in the cage they shut the door and yelled I was in first place. When I got to the next level I had to run and jump to get to the cage. Now I have to run through a tunnel and jump over a jump with my buddy Coco. Some day Coco and I hope to do rabbit agility with more jumps and a teeter totter and maybe even an A frame.”

While searching the internet, we came across rabbit agility. Having had a dog with some agility training we thought that it sure would be fun to do agility with our bunnies. Samantha began teaching Coco her pet Dutch rabbit to go over a homemade jump. Coco is eager to please and took to it right away. Allison was next to get involved with a black Dutch buck that was slated for the stew pot. She was determined to save Speedy.

Speedy's training began with the girls setting up a race course for the young rabbits. Speedy got his name because he usually won every race.

Soon the two girls had a regular course of jumps running through the center of the barn. With regular encouragement and treats both rabbits became quite good at jumping over obstacles. Later we convinced a friend to build rabbit sized agility equipment including 2 pole jumps and an A-Frame.

The best rabbits for jumping and agility tend to be very energetic and active. Look for a rabbit that is agile and quick. Then spend a lot of time with your rabbit on a harness and lead. This is a must for doing jumping/agility in an area that is not fenced. Set up small jumps such as a 2 X 4 and encourage them to jump over it. Slowly increase the height of the jumps and then add in things like a tunnel or A-Frame.

We are looking forward to sharing this fun “sport” with members of our 4-H club. The girls are working with the rabbit club to build a team of bunny enthusiasts that will be ready to put on an exhibition at the county fair. We have found that the agility is a great way for the girls to spend time getting to know their bunnies and it keeps them active and interested in rabbit raising. Even during the cold winter months when there weren't any shows they spent hours in the barn running their bunnies over jumps and through tunnels.

The Ugliest Dutch

On June 21st, the Michigan Dutch Rabbit Club held their annual specialty show and picnic. One of the highlights of the day was the “Ugliest Dutch” contest. The class had no restrictions on color, sex, or age, as long as it was a Dutch. At last, something for our mismarks, and some pretty ugly ones showed up for the class. Participants were Janet Bowers, Heather White, Allison Bellairs, Mackenzie and Madison Everett, Kristy Hume, and Samantha Bellairs.

Kristy had an almost white Dutch with a few blue markings just brought out of the nestbox for the show, named ALF (alien life form).

The Everett's had a very popular entry of a junior who had taken a red Kool-aid bath just before the show.

But the ugliest Dutch of all was “Mismark”, a senior buck owned by Samantha Bellairs. The “trophy” was a button with a black Dutch body with a Boston terrier face.

Congratulations Samantha!

From the Sweepstakes Chair

by Norma Hart

It's been quite a ride! The summer weather (heat, wind, rain, no rain, and all those floods) has been quite the trip for many. It seems to be tapering off a bit now with the last week in the upper 80's rather than what has felt, at times, like we could easily cook eggs on the sidewalk. Hopefully each has managed to weather the temps themselves while attempting to keep their animals cool.

I'd like to take this opportunity to go into the manner in which entries are submitted at the shows attended so that there isn't any confusion as to how your sweepstakes works, and how your points are counted.

When you make an entry, that entry is considered as one (1) entry regardless if it includes just John Doe in the exhibitor/owners name area, or if it contains John, Mary, Johnny and little Mary Marie Doe's names. (As per ARBA rules, remember that all owners names must appear on the entry.) If the animals on that entry belong only to John and Mary Doe and not to Johnny and Mary Marie, then as per the ARBA, only John and Mary's name should be included on the entry form submitted.

When John and Mary enter their animals together under one entry, it is necessary for both individuals to have current ADRC memberships in order to maintain those points earned in that joint manner.

When Dick and I exhibit our animals, our entry includes both his name and mine as the animals belong to both of us as a joint venture. That entry is then considered one (1) entry, not two just because there are two names listed, and the points earned from that entry are counted and listed under both our names. If either of our ADRC membership lapses and go beyond the grace period allowed, any points that we earned under both our names would then be lost. There is no way to take an entry submitted in one manner, and then change how the sweepstakes points were won from that entry and place them differently.

Let's say that for whatever reason (and unfortunately, fair shows are one of the most common reasons for this due to the number of premiums any one entry can receive payment for), John Doe submits an entry under his name, while Mary Doe submits an entry under her name. These are then two entries, and both John and Mary are then eligible for sweepstakes points each earned individually, provided both are current paid ADRC members), and those points are then credited and listed as such, X number of points for John, and X number of points for Mary.

As always, an exhibitor is determined by the manner in which the entry was made (the name or names that appear on the entry form), and each entry constitutes one exhibitor in the show regardless of the number of names that appear on that one (1) entry form. This is the same manner used when an exhibitor count is determined in order to 'win a leg'.

The facts are; when John and Mary enter their animals together under one entry, it is necessary for both individuals to have current ADRC memberships in order to maintain those points earned in that manner.

If an exhibitor, one (individual) member exhibitor, or one (multiple partnership) member exhibitor allows their ADRC membership to lapse more than 60 days past their expiration date, all points for that "exhibitor" are then lost.

The ADRC always does its utmost to be as equally fair to every member as possible, and the sweepstakes is most certainly one area that undoubtedly requires totally equal treatment for all.

You might want to look at it this way, (e.g. only!) John Smith has repeatedly shown his animals under his name only and has accumulated 7,000 points....Mary Doe has repeatedly shown her animals under her name only and has accumulated 12,000 points..."Down the road" a bit, they decided to combine their animals and be joint owners and partners. Do you really feel as though they should then be able to take all the points that they have each earned individually and combine them to make a grand total of over 19,000 points under John Smith & Mary Doe and possibly now be number one in the sweepstakes??? What if they had been showing as partners all along and then John's membership lapsed. Should Mary then be able to take all those points and list them under only Mary Doe even though she didn't earn them all under just her name? Not at all to either! Any points earned and credited are done so exactly as to how the entry was submitted, so to mix and match, or add and delete, is something that just can't be done. To sidestep this area and allow anything at all that we shouldn't, would be a real disservice to the entire membership participating and most definitely detract from the ADRC sweepstakes.

Another area of concern are questions regarding whether or not a show is sanctioned by the ADRC. I will gladly sanction any show that the request with all of the necessary information and fees has arrived prior to the actual show. (The accompaniment of the show's ARBA sanction number/s are a MUST!) I will not issue a sanction to any show that is already been held.

Since many clubs do not apply for their sanction until close to the show date, I can't always respond as to whether or not the club will have an ADRC sanction. Please feel free to always contact me if you are in question as to whether or not the show you will be attending already has a sanction with us. If at the time you ask no sanction has yet been applied for or issued, you must then contact the sponsoring club yourself to ask if they would sanction the Dutch for you as this is not something that the ADRC does.

Most commonly, provided the exhibitor pays for the sanction fee, the club will agree to request the breed sanction, however, be aware that you 'may not' request a sanction on your own unless you have first secured the approval of the host club.

For those show secretaries submitting handwritten reports, please realize that I have not taken any course in hieroglyphics, so it's necessary to write or print your reports as clearly as possible. If I'm unable to read the report, I am then often unable to credit points where due. For those submitting computer generated forms, please provide every portion of that report that contains any of the breed information, including a complete breed exhibitor list.

The ARBA Convention is just around the corner, and in order to exhibit at Louisville, you must be a current member of the ARBA... The ADRC allows a healthy 60 day grace period for your membership in order to retain points earned, soooooo, if you are at all concerned with any ADRC sweepstakes points that may be earned at this event, be sure to also check your ADRC member expiration date!! For convenience in keeping your membership current, expiration dates appear on your membership card and DR labels, they can (usually) also be found on the ADRC website on the membership listing, plus, Barb always has a listing of expiring members printed in each issue of the Dutch Reporter. Be sure to check out all of these areas and keep your membership current.

If you should have any questions regarding the ADRC sanctions or sweepstakes, please don't ever hesitate to contact me! I am always more than happy to assist the membership in these areas whenever possible. If I don't have an answer for you, I'll work quickly to get you one.

My best wishes to each for an abundance of full nest boxes, and lots of Dutch wins.

DR Editor Report

by Dick Gehr

Wow....time for another Dutch Reporter already. You may feel like it is a long time between issues, but not me! It takes a bit of time to put the DR together once the deadline has come, in order to insure all articles and pictures receive the best quality for printing possible. Sometimes it takes a little manipulation, as files come in formats different than I normally use, pictures come in resolutions that need to be tweaked, etc. The more modifications necessary, the longer it takes to complete the issue for printing.

The best manner to send materials to me for printing is by attaching a WORD document or a simple text file to an email. If you are unable to do so, sending a typed article to me via convention mail works also.

If sending pictures as attachments, they should be at least 200 resolution, or taken with a 3 megapixel (or higher) digital camera. I will always check a picture when receiving it, and if it doesn't look like it will reproduce well in print, I will contact you and we can work on getting something that will.

This issue does not contain much hoopla from an NDS or ARBA Convention, but we have tried to fill the pages with interesting and informative material. Let me know if you have anything you would like to see printed in upcoming issues, and we will certainly investigate the feasibility of doing so.

The Fall shows will be underway when you receive this, so good luck to you on the show tables. I hope you all have a winner and enjoy the camaraderie of showing your Dutch.

Proposed Sweepstakes Modifications

by Dick Gehr

At the ADRC Board Meeting in Bloomington last April, I questioned the Officers and Directors regarding a few modifications to our present Sweepstakes contest.

Presently, we offer several levels of our Sweepstakes Contests, and I feel a couple of changes would make things a bit more "balanced".

First of all, we have a contest called "Best of Breed". However, this contest consists of points accumulated by animals winning both Best of Breed and Best Opposite Sex. I would propose changing this contest name to "Award of Excellence".

At present, this contest is figured by an animal winning BOB getting 2 times the number of animals shown in the breed (IE: If there are 20 Dutch shown, the BOB animal receives 40 points towards the Best of Breed contest). Also, the animal winning BOS is awarded 1 times the number of animals shown in the breed (IE: given the 20 animals shown above, the BOS animal receives 20 points).

Points won by all BOB or BOS animals shown by an exhibitor are added together for the total points of this contest

My contention is the above method lacks balance. I feel an animal should receive 1 point for each rabbit it beats for its quality award (BOB or BOS). Given the above example of 20 animals being shown, if there were 18 bucks and only 2 does shown, and let's say a doe won BOS, it would receive 20 points when it actually only beat out 1 other animal.

I feel the points would be more reflective of the win if the BOB animal received 1 point times the number of Dutch shown (as it beat them all), and the BOS animal would receive 1 point times the number of that same sex shown (as it only beat that many animals for BOS). I believe this would create a more balanced contest and not reflect inflated numbers.

The Rabbit of the Year contest is figured using the same basic method as the Best of Breed contest, however additional bonus points are awarded to any animal winning Best In Show or Best 4 Class.

Again, I feel the method of awarding 1 point times the number of animals actually beaten is more balanced and fair, thus propose the same be adopted for the Rabbit of the Year contest as described previously.

As many clubs do not choose Best 4 Class or Best Reserve in Show (neither award is presently mandated by the ARBA), I believe ONLY Best In Show should receive bonus points.

In order to reflect the quality of an exhibitor's herd, I would also propose a "Herdsman" contest. This contest exists in some of the other specialty clubs, and I feel would be a great addition to the Dutch fancy.

Basically, the requirements to win an ARBA leg of Grand Champion would need to be met in order for an animal to receive any Herdsman points.

Any rabbit winning a BOB would receive 2 points, and any rabbit winning BOS would receive 1 point (points awarded for each show the animal wins BOB or BOS). A maximum number of 5 points would be possible for any one animal per sweepstake's year.

Herdsman points won by all animals for an exhibitor would be added together in order to determine the top Herdsman of the year.

The above is felt to reflect the quality and depth of a herd, rather than just one or two animals an exhibitor may have during a sweepstakes year that continue to win show after show.

There may still be a few questions regarding the proposals, but the above reflects the jist of my thoughts for the ADRC Sweepstakes contests. I hope you will all give them due consideration. Should you have any questions regarding my proposals, please feel free to email me at rwgehr@cbcast.com or speak with me at show.

Thanks for the consideration, and Happy Showing !!

Please remember that in order for a Dutch to win Best in Show, it would be considered the Best 4 Class animal. Many shows do not choose Best 4 Class or Best Reserve in Show, so the above winnings reflect only the highest award noted on the show report. If you won Best In Show, Best 4 Class, or Best Reserve in Show and your name and Dutch do not appear above, then the win was not recorded on the show report. Please contact the Show Secretary and inform them to send me an email or letter affirming the information as listed above for the show, and we will make sure it is recorded in the show report and listed in the next DR.

DONATIONS & DUTCH BREAKFAST BANQUET AT ARBA CONVENTION

We are in need of some donations to cover our awards for the show. The awards normally run about $1000 to $1100. The ADRC gives $500 towards the awards, while the pass the hat from the previous Convention usually provides another $300 or so, with the balance coming from donations from individuals. So, that leaves us about $200 to $300 short of what we would normally spend. This letter is asking those of you who would like to make a contribution for the awards to do so. All donations can be sent to ADRC Secretary, Barb Kline, 4664 S Co Rd 591, New Riegel, OH 44853. All checks should be made out to the ADRC.

The ADRC Breakfast Banquet will be held on Wednesday, October 29th, at 9:00 AM, at the Executive West Hotel. The Executive West Hotel is the ARBA Headquarters hotel and is located across the street from the convention center. The cost for the breakfast is $16 per adult and $14 per child age 12 and under. The breakfast will be a buffet featuring French toast, fluffy scrambled eggs, smoked bacon, link sausage, hash brown potatoes, creamy sausage gravy, and assorted cold cereals with milk.

RESERVATIONS ARE REQUIRED!

RESERVE BY SENDING THE FOLLOWING FORM TO BARB KLINE BY OCTOBER 1ST.
