You Can't Beat The Dutch

President's Report

Kevin Hooper

The spring show season (which really starts in the winter) is just beginning across the Midwest. This is a time of year that most rabbit enthusiasts look forward to, and I am no exception. After being cooped up all winter, it is nice to get out and see fellow Dutch breeders and see how your animals compare to others after a few months off.

It is also when everyone starts looking for Dutch rabbits! I have had numerous inquiries over the last couple of weeks from people wanting to buy Dutch! If anyone ever wants to gauge how popular our Dutch rabbits are, simply look at the demand! We always have many Dutch being sold at our National Dutch show, but we should expect that as the Dutch is what has brought us all together. But, if we look at the number of animals sold at the ARBA Convention, that tells me that there is not only demand from our Dutch breeders, but from many, many who are wanting to get into Dutch. The success that our Dutch have had at the last few ARBA Conventions should make our breed even more popular!

Todd Uran and Dan Monohan are working on building up the inventory of new publicity items which will be available at the NDS. They not only will have a nice supply of patches and apparel, but possibly some new items that other breeds will soon be wanting for themselves? More details as this unfolds.

This years National Dutch Show will be in Bloomington, Illinois, April 11-13. We have been having record numbers the last few shows, so this again should be a large showing of Dutch! I'm sure Dick Gehr and crew will make this one run as smoothly as ever. If you have not been to a NDS before, it is a nice time to not only acquire stock, but to meet and talk Dutch with the most prominent Dutch breeders in the country.

I think I have attended every NDS since 1986, except maybe Portland or somewhere in the Northwest in the late eighties. Well, I will miss this years NDS as well. My wife and I are expecting our second child the end of April (another girl), so I'm sticking a bit closer to home. I will miss seeing everyone, seeing the building full of Dutch, and the friendly competition that comes with such a big show! My rabbits will be in attendance, but showing is just not the same if you are not there. I have told some they should get a hands free phone because I will want constant updates on how each class is going!

If any clubs are wanting to bid on the 2011, or even 2012 NDS, please plan to present your bid during the Board meeting at the NDS. It is never too early to start planning for one of these as the early bird gets the worm!

I recently stepped down as the Ohio State Dutch Rabbit Club President. I had served in that capacity for the last ten years or more. With the OSDRC, I simply felt it was time for someone else to lead the way. Now, it is time for me to step down as the ADRC President as well. I cannot locate my box of old Dutch Reporters to see when I actually became the ADRC President? It seems like a long time ago! I know it has been at least eight years, maybe more. I was elected after Fred Mullinax decided not to run for another term, just can't remember what year that was?

The office of ADRC President does not take that much time. It takes a little time to write an article, which I will continue to do. It takes some time to figure out who would be the logical choices for committees. It takes some time to follow up with committee chairs and others to see if they are doing what they should be. Time is not really the issue. What it takes is enthusiasm and energy! When I first became President, I tried to due monthly updates to the Board. I have not done those in years. It takes energy to help organize and run the meetings, answer questions, and more questions, and more.....

Right now, my business has grown, my family is growing, and my enthusiasm has waned, and along with that, the energy that I choose to devote to the club.

I will still be around, and in several years, maybe I will want to serve on the Board again? But, right now, I want to go to the show, talk Dutch, spend some time enjoying the show and talking to the other breeders which it seems I no longer am able to do? Jack Wireman always said more than two terms is too many, and I contemplated not running again at that time.

However, we have a very capable person who will be moving up from her Vice-President role to serve the remaining portion of my term. Sue Hill will be the new ADRC President! She has been a big asset with several of the issues that have come up the last few years and will do a great job as President! Sue and I have spent countless hours on the phone the last few years and I have every confidence she will serve the ADRC well!

Thanks for supporting me in the past and I look forward to seeing all of you this fall in Louisville!

Kevin Hooper

Out - going President

Vice-President's Report Sue Hill

Like many of you, I love to find little rabbit things to add to my collections through out my home and gardens. They end up being wonderful conversation pieces. I dragged a carved wooden rabbit home from Jamaica a couple years ago after the artist continued to drop the price to keep me from buying a similar one from the next booth. While furniture shopping, I practically did a back flip in the middle of a store one day when I found a cabinet with the two front doors painted to look like rabbits in a hutch. A pair of concrete gargoyle rabbits, one of which is now sporting only three and a half legs after tumbling out of my hands, glares at visitors from my front step. A chainsaw carved rabbit stands at attention in my garden out in front of the barn. The mailbox will soon have a metal bunny and friends attached to the top. The Christmas tree has rabbit ornaments from 25 years of traveling across the country. I could go on and on listing all the Lapin things that have found their way here.

Yesterday, though, I saw something that even I, master rabbit thingy collector, could not bring myself to buy.

A tee-shirt.

Oh, yes, it did have a rabbit on it. And it certainly would have been a conversation piece. It caught my eye as my husband and I exited a magnificent exhibit at the Milwaukee Public Museum appropriately titled "Body World". Many of you have already seen it. For those of you that have not, it is an incredible display of the human body from the inside out. Actual bodies and organs donated to science have been painstakingly prepared with a special plastic compound and are shown in poses that allowed visitors to see muscle, cartilage, bone, nerves and blood vessels in a mind boggling display of human art.

In comes the tee-shirt. Instead of having a nice Dutch on the front, it had a werewolf looking creature standing upright, front paws extended out—body dissected like the human exhibit I had just intensely studied for the past two hours. There was no fur, no Dutch belt or blaze or stops. Just a rabbit shape made of muscle and blood vessels, walking zombie-like across the front of the shirt. My initial, "Oh, honey, look!" comment soon changed to "What...in...the...world??" It was, in my humble collector opinion, the most horrifying aspect of the entire Body World exhibit. Needless to say, it stayed on the rack.

Speaking of tee-shirts, though! Our new dynamic publicity duo, Todd and Dan, are busily ordering fresh merchandise for our upcoming NDS. This is the time to email Todd and let him know if you have any exciting thoughts for clothing or other items for the publicity department. We want to be getting sweatshirts, jackets and t-shirts YOU want to wear so they don't stay on our racks like Mr. Scary Rabbit did back in Milwaukee. See something cool at another breed booth at ARBA? Let Todd and Dan know!

Our booth committee is starting to form ideas for ARBA decorations so if you are interested in helping, please contact Melody Stremkowski . We would like to have our booth represent our fine breed with more than we've had in the past. This is the time for those with a crafty streak to jump in and get involved!

The spring shows are starting now and, as usual, breeders are anxious to show after winter withdrawal. The gas prices are at an all time high, feed prices are going up dramatically, and the cost of entries will most likely follow suit. So what is a Dutch breeder to do?

First of all, it's a perfect opportunity to really assess your herd for the stragglers that are not producing like they should. I have held onto does that have only produced marginally because I really liked them or the line they came from. It is when cages space becomes an issue that it is very easy for me to weed out those does and keep the ones that are an asset to my program. Look over your herd and if there are animals that you have vacillated over hanging on to, they are the ones to cut out. It is very possible to produce top quality without quantity, AND cut down on the feed bill in the process.

If you have any breeders in your area, it may be feasible to travel together to shows to share gas expenses. It also makes it easier to do those early, early morning drives when even the sun is still sleeping.

Depending on the area you live in, certain feeds may only be available. Ask the dealer if there is a program that offers discounts for quantities purchased and perhaps you can split an order with one or more breeders to get the price down.

Clubs are also looking at ways to cut costs. Double shows help to draw more exhibitors to offset the rental costs and judges fees. It is something we had talked about for years with the Dutch Nationals. We have already shared with other breeds and it went well. Building rental is becoming very expensive so the clubs putting on our shows are especially appreciative of your patronizing their events. Consider helping sort cards, offering to write for your breed, or donating towards the raffles. It's a great way to meet new people and share a sense of satisfaction in being involved!

In the coming DR's it would be nice to see some articles on rabbitries. We have a couple breeders that I am aware of that have either built a new barn or are in the process of designing one, and there are most likely several more people in the Dutch world . John Milroy's barn is up and running. He took pictures of it as it was being built and it is truly a beauty! Perhaps John will share these with us, along with an article of what was included in his design. Dan & Theresa Schwandt have moved to a gorgeous home with land for the menagerie they have. A state of the art barn plan has been brewing in Dan's brain for some time. The Upper Midwest Dutch group has generously offered to come help build it but for reason, Dan breaks out in a sweat at the thought of it. Regardless, we may be able to see that barn building project in the near future highlighted in the DR. Kristine Leverich from the Wisconsin Dells area is also putting up a nice barn. If anyone else is planning a new Dutch barn or shed, contact a director so we can highlight you! And Kevin Hooper still needs to send in pictures of his barn that is one of my all time favorites for character. He assures me that will be coming.

Hopefully, many of you have litters on the ground and promising youngsters already separated out that are getting your hopes up for a big win at NDS! Our convention is a bit early this year so litters had to be planned sooner than in the past. If you are thinking of making this NDS your first, you will not be disappointed by the quality of animals under one roof. If you are looking for new stock, this is a perfect opportunity to check out great Dutch from top breeders from all over the country. Once you try experience a show such as this, it is hard to not make it a part of your showing year from then on!

My report is longer than usual, especially since my last report was lost somewhere in internet land black hole. I was not aware it did not make it to Dick until I opened the DR and found my little blurb missing. Of course, I have had some nice gentle razzing from friends on this so I guess the good thing is I know it is at least being read!

Lastly, the board will be working hard in the coming months on many projects with one of those being the rewording and rewriting of our bylaws to get them up to date. A committee will be in place shortly to work on that. We are continuing to look at ways to make the club stronger and encourage more involvement from our members. Rick Billups mentioned in his director report that he hoped more people would help out when needed. The same people can always be counted on to help out! Here are a couple suggestion to get YOU involved; When this NDS rolls around, grab a pen and write remarks for a couple hours. It is not hard and is quite interesting to work along side the judge. Or, consider being a relief writer for a shorter period of time. If you are watching your rabbit being judged, grab those animals already placed and bring them back when they are ready for the trip back to their pen. If you are snapping pictures, send some nice ones to Dick for use in the DR. Julie Hume can also use pictures for the website so drop her an email and let her know what you have.

Let's continue to make this club one of the best because it IS and always WILL BE!

Best of luck in Dutch~

Sue Hill

You Can't Beat The Dutch

I would like to first point out that the financial statement is in a little different format this time. I have included all the different funds into one profit and loss statement but listed them separately on the balance statement. Since I am taking care of all the funds I figured it would best to combine them but also as you can see they each have their own balance. One beginning balance I do not have is the Publicity fund. Angie Aisbet is sending me the balance left in the checking and the certificate of deposit in the next couple of weeks and I will then amend the balance statement. If anyone has any questions on this new format, please do not hesitate to ask.

We currently have 937 members in the ADRC. 292 of those members are members that joined in 2007. The breakdown of membership types is as follows: 336 are in a family membership, 116 are in a husband/wife membership, 263 are single memberships, 156 are youth memberships and 66 are lifetime members. Also the breakdown between adult and youth members is 594 adult members and 343 youth members. We have 50 members that are currently 90 days or more delinquent with their membership. These members will be dropped from the membership once they reach 180 days delinquent. We have 63 members that are currently 90 days or less delinquent with their membership. Please review the expired membership listing in this issue and posted on the website and see if you are one of these members. Also please if you see any of these members at a local show, encourage them to get their membership dues paid.

On January 1st we started a new membership contest. For the month of January I had 2 new members join and one of them had a referral listed. As you attend your local shows, take along some membership applications with your name listed as the referral and hand them out to prospective members. The member referring the most new members at the end of the year will receive a $20 gift certificate to the ADRC to use in Publicity or towards your membership renewal.

Director's Report

District One

Rick Billups

I hope this issue of the Dutch Reporter finds everyone well and preparing for the upcoming Nationals in April. The last issue of the DR had all the information on the Nationals along with several hotels to choose from. I think the biggest shock was the check-in time being posted as noon on Friday verses the standard or normal time that we have come accustomed to. I understand the challenges faced by the host of this year's NDS but possible issues should have been discussed during the last general membership meeting in Grand Rapids. We all look forward to the NDS and schedule our breeding and vacation time around it. Let's make the best of it the situation and lend a helping hand to make the show go quick and as smooth possible.

Our winter here in Ohio has been mild compared to other parts of the country so I expect we will see a great number of juniors on the table this spring. The Ohio State Dutch Club has seen a change in officers this past election, Todd Uran is now President. I want to thank Kevin for a job well done and hope he enjoys his break from office but understands he's always just a phone call away. I've been a member of the Ohio State Dutch Club for over 25 years and can only recall 3 men serving as President of the club, Jack Wireman, Larry Nixon and Kevin Hooper. Both Jack and Kevin served their Presidency while also holding the same office in the ADRC.

I hope to see you this spring in Illinois,

Rick

This article is not about rabbits. Two days after Christmas one of my grandsons was struck in the head by a bullet from a large caliber handgun. In a cruel twist of fate, the accident occurred while my son, the boy's father, was examining the gun. As you can imagine, nothing else has seemed very important to us since then. On the way to the hospital only one thought came to my mind - best possible outcome! I repeated the phrase over and over to my son. We said it to each other many times over the next few days.

One of my assignments from high school English Lit class was to read "A Tale of Two Cities". In the opening chapter, Dickens expressed the sentiment that these were "the best of times and the worst of times. I wondered then how the paradox of such diametrically opposed ideas could exist at the same time. Over the past month I have come to understand that such things are indeed possible. During this time when we were bombarded with one negative diagnosis after another predicting the worst possible outcome for Weston we were buoyed by the faith, prayers and hugs from family, friends and even complete strangers. The number of people praying for Weston grew from a few that first night to dozens and then thousands all across our great country. Our paradox: the devastating thought of losing this precious child while all the while experiencing the exhilaration of feeling the presence of God and seeing miracle after miracle take place in answer to all the prayers sent up in our behalf. After 4 or 5 days, against all odds, we were told that he might survive; but, the wonderful, wacky kid we knew could never return and that body in that hospital bed would remain in a permanent vegetative state.

In answer to yet another prayer, Weston was accepted by and transferred to Children's Healthcare of Atlanta at Scottish Rite on Monday, January 14, 2008. The first day of rehab saw this child with "little hope of meaningful recovery" talking to his parents!

Two weeks into his rehabilitation, he is talking, laughing, joking, eating whatever he wants, and participating actively in his own rehabilitation! Weston is setting goals for himself and praying for God to "give me control of my arms." What we have witnessed over the past two weeks can only be compared to a resurrection, a miraculous healing!

We have set up a Care page site through the hospital here in Atlanta that his mother updates daily. Visit it at www.carepages.com/choa. You will have to register the first time you visit only. Then visit the care page "WestonBrewer" (notice that it is one word). Our local weekly newspaper, The Saluda Standard Sentinel, is also doing an update, If you don't happen to subscribe, you can find their lead articles online.

Sorrow shared is divided - joy shared is multiplied. Please rejoice with us at each stage of Weston's miraculous recovery.

Chesapeake Regional Dutch Breeders Spring Shows

Chesapeake Regional Dutch Breeders held their spring show and meeting during the weekend of the PaSRBA convention in Lebanon, Pa. The PaSRBA is one of the largest shows in the States other than the ARBA National Convention. Over the weekend, nearly 8,000 rabbits and cavies, in open and youth divisions are judged.

In addition to open and youth division Dutch shows on Saturday and Sunday, sponsored by PaSRBA, the CRDBA hosts open and youth division shows on Saturday and Sunday as well. That results in 4 open and 4 youth Dutch shows over the course of the weekend. This resulted in nearly 1000 Dutch being shown in Lebanon, Pa. on the first weekend in Feb. Exhibitors traveled from Maine, Mass., Ohio, West Virginia, Virginia, Maryland, New York and Conn. to join the several Pa exhibitors. Several of the exhibitors joined the CRDBA for a dinner meeting Saturday evening. A great time was had by all.

Elections were held, resulting in President - John Graybeal, Vice President - Aaron Martin, Sec. - Emily Moyer, Treasurer - Beverly Cihan, Directors - Ricky Wood, Audrey Grisez, Billy Bounds and Bethany Brown (youth representative).

We were fortunate to have judges for the CRDBA shows that are nationally renowned including; Greg West and Rusty Westhoff (both did youth) and Josh Humphries and Erik Bengston (both did open). They were really working hard sorting some really deep classes, many of the classes in open and youth were 15 or more in size.

Show results from the CRDBA specialty shows were -

Saturday

Open CRDBA (total entries = 106) BOB - Gray Jr. Buck (Billy Bounds) BOS - Chocolate Sr. Doe (Pam Dunning), Youth CRDBA (total entries = 128) BOB - Tort Sr. Buck (Nate Graybeal) BOS - Blue Jr. Doe (Nate Graybeal).

Sunday

Open CRDBA (total entries = 61) BOB - Black Sr. Doe (Sharon Sartori) BOS - Gray Jr. Buck (Billy Bounds),

Youth CRDBA (total entries = 100) BOB - Blue Jr. Doe (Nate Graybeal) BOS - Tort Jr. Buck (Marissa Wells)

It was great having so many friends join us from so far away for this big start to the show season. If you want to visit for the weekend next year, we would love to have you show with us. Contact John Graybeal (rabbitfarm@yahoo.com) for more information.

Here it is time for another issue of the DR. That means old man time just keeps on plugging along.

We here in Illinois are gearing up for the NDS in April, and promise you will experience a great show. The facility is excellent, motels are reasonable and close, and there is a lot of room for a lot of Dutch!

While you are visiting the NDS, you might try to work in an hour or two over at the ABA office. The Library/Archive is worth the entire visit to the ABA Headquarters. You can also say Hello to the staff that serves you daily.

Bloomington has excellent access via highways, with I-74 and I-55 crossing just a few miles from the show site.

Andrew Craig's mom, Karen, who most of you probably know, and Debbie Marquis, Trevor's mom, will be handling the Youth activities on Friday night, and the raffle we will have at the show. I know they are working on putting together a fun evening for the kids. I have other plans for Andrew and Trevor, but they might be able to get free to enjoy the events for a few minutes.

Please remember that at this time, plans are to have an area for the sales rabbits, but they will need to be kept in carriers. So, if you are bring sales rabbits, plan to use your bigger carriers for them so they are more comfortable during the weekend. Dependent on the entry, we may be able to make coops available, but at this time it is not anticipated.

Check-in will begin at Noon on Friday. So if you are coming in any before then, or even Thursday afternoon, that would give you the time you need to stop by the ABA office.

Our banquet will be nothing real fancy, but we have had the same menu in the past for our State Convention banquet, and everyone will have plenty to eat, and it will be very good food.

We are looking forward to having you all come to Bloomington for a weekend of Dutch fun and camaraderie. I will be looking for that van that passed me on the way to the NDS in Michigan last year, and am sure that I will see the occupants even if I don't see the van. If I don't see them, I will still know they are there.

We are especially looking forward to having Scott Williamson come back to the midwest (where he belongs). Scott was an integral part of the Illinois Dutch Rabbit Club for many years, and it will be great to have him home again.

See you in Bloomington

Dick

Happy New Year Dutch Buddies! I am proud to be your new District 2 Director of the Dutch World. Things have been wild around here since seeing most of you at convention. The following week we got married which went well except now someone thinks that she should have half the cages on the barn for her rabbits. I'm still trying to teach her otherwise. After the wedding we slowly began moving to our new home which took a few weeks. Meanwhile I lived at one place and Theresa at the other. We finally got all of the critters to their new home the weekend before Christmas. Through it all we have spent many a days trying to fit everything we had in six sheds, now into only one. Things are very tight in there and the culling of litters has become more harsh for lack of cage space. My rabbits did not tolerate the move to the new barn as I only saved seven of my first thirty-two litters. I was getting very upset because the weather wasn't that cold and most were experienced does. Fortunately things are getting better but now it is too late for them to be prospects for NDS. This is the time of year I'm just happy if they save the litter. If they are all mismarked I won't complain because of the big demand this time of year for bunnies in the pet market. I'm already getting requests which can't fulfill. We had to miss a show in January due to severe winter weather. The temperature was minus fourteen degrees that morning and we never like taking the rabbits out into the cold, then into a warm building and then back outside again. So, we stayed home and watched my Packers lose to the Giants, what a terrible day!

Our show season will get started soon with shows scheduled four out of the next five weekends. I sure hope they get here soon because Theresa is having "rabbit show withdrawals" and it will be nice to see our Dutch buddies. It is always nice to hear what they've been doing over the winter and to see the juniors they have to debut. This will be the first time out with many juniors which will need to learn some table manners before the bigger shows come along.

Speaking of the big show, I hope everyone had made plans for their travels to Bloomington, Illinois for NDS. I have seen the showroom a few times and it's very nice with plenty of room, good lighting, easy to find, conveniently located near hotels and restaurants and the banquets room is attached to the showroom. So tell your boss you're taking Friday off, get your assignments done early, get the truck tuned up, and print your mapquest directions to the Land of Lincoln.

Keep those bucks happy, the does busy, the nest boxes full, and the show tables competitive.

Dan

Director's Report District Two Warren Wiltman

Hope everyone is doing well. I haven't heard too much from other Dutch people and haven't been to any rabbit shows since last September. With this lack of subject matter to deal with I decided to write about some things I've been trying with my rabbits.

I've always said in the past "Don't be afraid to try anything". Especially when things aren't going well, you have nothing to lose. You can listen to another breeder and visit their ideal setup, do everything the same and not have the same degree of success. Why is that? I believe that rabbits develop a sense of comfort with certain surroundings, much like we do, and will do better in breeding and raising young when their surroundings best match their comfort level. Now as with people, some can adapt to things more easily than others. Some can live comfortably anywhere and others have a hard time adapting.

For example; Sue Hill had a doe that she had purchased. Had it for more than six months and couldn't get it bred. Even when it appeared the rabbit would breed there were no young born. She sent the rabbit over by me, it bred the next day, and has had four litters in a row since. Sue has a very nice rabbit barn and her rabbits get treated very well with many kind words and a few treats once in a while. But for some reason that rabbit preferred a dingy hole in the wall by me instead. Soon this doe will be going back to Sue. The question will be, if put back into the same cage in the same barn will the doe return to her old ways?

Another example; If a doe doesn't do well in one cage move her to another with different surroundings. I had three does that insisted on having their young on the wire every time instead of in the nest box. I moved them from a cage where the nest box was added to the cage, just slid in the corner, to a cage where the nest box was attached to the side and the doe went through a hole to enter the box. Each of the does had their young in the nest box. Was this coincidence or were these surroundings more acceptable to the does.

I've also moved does from cages that were open to the ground to cages with a tray directly under the wire and got more favourable results. The same goes for cages in the middle of the building versus a cage tucked away alone the wall.

Whether it's the size of a pen, the location of the pen, the type of nest box you use, or any slight difference you can make, don't be afraid to try it another way to improve your overall results. Much like us humans, I believe the rabbits prefer one way over another and will do much better if we take the time and determine what this may be.

Happy New Year fellow Dutch Fanciers,
Hope your 2008 is off to a great start and you have lots of juniors for the coming show season. We are having unusual snow here in the Willamette Valley as we are just above sea level. The first local all-breed show of the new year was held in St Helens, Oregon just north of Portland with about 50 Dutch entered. I was working in the morning and it was a 2 hour drive in the rain/sleet so by the time I got there everything was over but heard the news. Hilary & Lisa Wittrock came from Spokane, WA and won both BOB & BOS in the morning show under Roger Hassenpflug with a Blue Jr doe and Gray Jr buck. This is the first year they are showing as a team; Hilary has graduated to open at the age of 16. So far 2008 has started off great for them as they were at the Coeur d'Alene, Idaho show last weekend and took Reserve In Show under judge Ron Riddle.

The afternoon show in St. Helens was judged by Cliff Dick now living in Washington, he picked Anthony Campbell's Gray Jr. doe for BOB and BOS went to a Black Jr Buck entered by Matt Gholden & I. We thank Ronda Huff & family for taking our rabbits to the show. Congratulations to Josh Huff for getting a third leg on his first Dutch a handsome Tort buck he named "Tommy" and to Madison Yang as she finished her pretty Blue doe "Azule". Madison was the big winner at the Fall Warren (triple Dutch show) weekend in Albany, Oregon last November where she took a double BOB win with "Azule" her first Dutch. You may remember I mentioned that Carmen Yang purchased her first Dutch in the spring of 2007, a Gray doe she named "Rosebud" and Madison was interested in Dutch but still showing other breeds. Well Madison started getting hooked on Dutch after watching her little sister Carmen winning several BOB's with Rosebud, now Madison is really hooked after doing it herself. Katie Kimmel is another 4-Her that has been working hard with her Dutch and doing very well especially with her favorite Blue buck "Sugarfoot". I'm very proud of the young Dutch breeders I've been meeting in Oregon and will include a picture.

Dutch show numbers in Oregon have been between 50-100 for the most part and the quality level is quite high. In 2008 we look forward to the second annual Western States Dutch Fanciers show in February and then double shows about once a month.

Wishing everyone happiness and good health in the new year !

Sincerely yours in Dutch,

Jill

Congratulations to Sarah Cleavenger on passing her judges test. Nice to see another Dutch judge. Congratulations also go to three youth breeders from this district who did very well at the ARBA convention in Grand Rapids. Autumn Dennistoun was 1st runner up Dutchess, National Achievement winner and, District 1 Achievement winner. Mashall Todd was 3rd runner up Prince and Garret Todd won ARBA Prince. Great job again this year by our youth.

Speaking of Grand Rapids, when they say "sky bridge" in Michigan, they mean "SKY BRIDGE". This thing was so long it had rest stops complete with food and drinks.

Another season has completed for the Northwest Dutch Club sweepstakes. This years tournament winners were Pete and Debra Nelsen with first place wins in two of the four events. Runner up went to Sarah Cleavenger. Her practice and preparation during the off season really paid off. The steep, hilly courses were good to long drive specialist Jean Harris who finished third. Fourth place went to Hilary Wittrock , who also did very well in other tournaments around the state. Arnold Ferguson found his way to fifth while another long drive specialist, Jill Phaff, finished sixth. Tour President Lloyd Gregg finished seventh, despite missing most of the season with injuries. Autumn Dennistoun finished eighth this season but will surely move up next year as she continues to gain experience and victories in the junior class. Newcomer Elizabeth Walked played well on her home course in Monroe and finished ninth while Jan Coffelt completed the leaderboard finishing in tenth spot. The weather was not a factor at any of the events this year which helped to increase the quality of play and the size of the galleries.

I have been asked a lot lately about my hair. The truth is I am letting it grow out to donate it to "Locks Of Love", who make wigs for kids with cancer. It should be long enough by June to cut, at which time I'm sure my wife will be turning cartwheels through the house. I also hope that you will join me in making a commitment to thank the Show Committees and Secretaries for their hard work at each event I attend this coming season.

"A New Year -- A New Direction"

It is Christmas Eve as I sit down to write this, but knowing me, it will be a New Year by the time I finish. It will be almost the start of the spring show season by the time of publication. Hopefully, all of you have had a great holiday season and this New Year (2008) will bring you much personal happiness, good health, and of course a lot of success on the show table.

The New Direction this year is my appointment as Director of District 3. I look forward to the challenge. The first thing I must do as Director is to thank the retiring director and close personal friend, Bob Bergene, for his years of dedication to the ADRC and this district. My plan is to continue his lead and help to promote the Dutch Rabbit and do whatever I can to keep this club headed in the right direction. As always, I encourage your input. It is "you", the membership, that make this organization and I am a mere conduit for your thoughts, information and questions.

If you can, please make plans to attend the National Dutch Show on April 11-13, 2008 in Bloomington, IL. I realize for many of you it's a long commute for just a weekend, but it's a weekend that will "Recharge" your "Dutch" batteries and keep you going straight thru the heat of the summer. I have never regretted the distance or sacrifice it took to experience the gathering of the finest examples of the Dutch breed under one roof. Besides, it's a chance to get caught up with old friends I have known for the 32 years I've been in this club. In addition, I will look forward to meeting new friends. So, if you do attend and we have not met, please come up and introduce yourself as I tend to be quiet and introverted, but I don't bite! (OK, the quiet and introverted part may not be accurate.) But, I really don't bite!

I hope to see you in Bloomington in April.

Rick

NOTICE:

Anyone interested in running for an ADRC office must have materials submitted by May 1 to the office of the secretary. For more information contact the ADRC secretary, Barb Kline.

If you have a question you wish to pose for either the "Ask the Judge" or "Ask the Breeder" columns, just e-mail or mail your question to me. These columns are an avenue where you can ask questions and advise from the professionals in our organization. For the judge's column, you may ask questions such as judging criteria, presentation on the show table, what it takes to become a judge, and proper etiquette as a few examples. For the breeder's column, questions can range from feeding, conditioning, breeding techniques, rabbit care, how to improve your herd, anything that people who have been breeding Dutch rabbits for many years might have suggestions on. If you would like to participate on the panels, just drop me an e-mail and I will add your name to our groups. The questions will be e-mailed and each participant has the option to answer or not. This is the chance to get a lot of viewpoints from across the country!

ASK THE JUDGE

I see in the November/December issue of the Domestic Rabbits there is a discussion under Roger Hasenpflug's column concerning a proposal to change the way judges are trained and licensed. Could you discuss the current method of training judges, specifically concerning the marked breeds? It seems there is much more involved in judging these because of the added factors of using the markings for placement. Do the judges get extra training or need additional time in their Judge's Endorsement Procedure working with the marked breeds? Most of the judges I have watched seem to understand the Dutch, but I have seen instances where the judge does not pose them correctly or they stretch them out when examining the undercut. I will also comment that about 1/3 of them do not examine for proper ring color. Has there ever been a discussion about having levels of licenses depending on difficulty of judging the different breeds? This is very common in judging horses, the newer judges are allowed to judge the lower levels of competition and have certain requirements and need experience before they are qualified to judge the more difficult levels.

From Kevin Hooper:

This is a difficult question, but one I believe needs consideration. The current system provides the basic training on each breed. You only get more training on Dutch if you end up working with more judges who judge them. Otherwise, if you want to learn more about a breed and how to judge them, once again I would suggest going to some of the best breeders. Most of them will take the time to show you some things which are not spelled out in the Standard, but are important to the breeders.

I like the idea of an apprenticeship. I would suggest having an applicant work multiple shows with more than one judge, maybe even up to three judges. The hard part is how does the ARBA choose which judges which can have an apprentice? Some judges are good on some breeds, some on others, some on none. In the politically correct world some live in this is not an easy task.

The different levels of judging is a worthy idea! I could see a beginning judge only being allowed to work certain breeds or being limited as to how many in a breed they could judge. The problem here is that makes it difficult for the show sponsor in hiring judges, but a worthy idea none the less!

From Keith McNinch:

Let the market continue to determine which judges are selected for certain shows, whereby experienced fancy judges are used for the marked breeds. There may be a need to qualify judges for Fancy and Commercial experience, but the proposed additional training of judges will add cost to the system and will further reduce the quantity of judges available for the large number of shows held. Many shows have a difficult time paying the fees and actual expenses needed by judges that have to travel far distances to the shows. Many areas do not have the quantity and quality of marked breeds to allow adequate training of the local prospective judges.

Although the concept of training is great, additional training may not provide a workable solution when the judge has not personally raised the breed he may be deficient on. It will be only until the cost structure of shows and judging changes to reward the proposed additional training. The current system will always be blamed for the inefficiency of its judges, but the costs of further refinement will be much greater than anticipated. Those judges that do not pursue additional training will need to be content with working the local shows where the proposed training is not required.

ASK THE BREEDER

What are your opinions regarding the ARBA registration system and the recent fee increase? Will the fee increase change your approach to registering your rabbits? Do you register your grand champions? If not, why not? How do you feel about the value of the registration system? Any opinions why it is not used by more breeders?

From Fran Schettler:

You really know how to hit my hot button-- this question really does it for me! It absolutely does affect how I feel about the registration system. I was quite loud in expressing my opposition right after the Texas Convention and before the increase went into effect. I wrote a letter to the ARBA Secretary Brad Boyce and my District Director, who said he had also forwarded it to Brad. I didn't get a response at all from the ARBA.

I have always registered my rabbits (22+ years) and supported the registration system by registering at least a few hundred rabbits each year. However, there is minimal return for the cost. The main return for me was that of pride in a pedigree that showed a lot of registrations. That pride is not worth the additional few hundred dollars a year. $6 per rabbit for say 200 rabbits is $1200! For a large breeder, the $2 increase in cost is substantial ($400 in the example) and there is no additional return. I remember the increase from $3 to $4. That's was almost too much even then. Overall though, it's just not worth it. People who know me are amazed at my decision on this, but the cost is just too high now.

Since the system is already very under supported by the membership, even by judges, raising the cost further suppresses participation in my opinion. I bought 5 rabbits in Texas including 3 from 2 ARBA judges. Of all of the rabbits on those 3-generation pedigrees (75), with several breeders represented through the generations, there were only about 5 rabbits that were registered. That's about 7% and that's not a lot of support is it?

Overall, the ARBA may find that they lose money if more people like me are dropping out. Now I am only going to register those that grand champion out. That undermines the whole premise of the registration system though.

My feeling is that the entire membership should support the system and not just those that faithfully use it. Now the faithful are being discouraged. I wonder how many others are dropping regular registrations? I felt that the ARBA should raise the dues or other fees further as necessary to support the system and to encourage (not discourage) participation, assuming that additional financial support of the system is indeed warranted. However, the ARBA apparently did not agree since no change was made. I did note significant verbiage in the Domestic Rabbits stridently supporting the fee increases, including the registration one, but, other than that, I heard nothing back.

As far as what I've heard about why more people don't use it, in addition to the cost reason, lack of time, lack of value and too much effort in the paperwork were cited.

From Theresa Schwandt:

In response to the question regarding the recent fee increase from $4 to $6 to register a rabbit, I would say that I was not surprised. The cost of all things eventually goes up, that is just the way it is. The fee pays for the registrar to take his or her time to thoroughly check over the animal, weight it and tattoo it. That fee also goes towards the personnel in the office filing the information, etc.

The fee increase hasn't really changed my approach to registering my Dutch. I like to register all of my herd bucks and some of my does. I say some does, because I have a number of really nice breeding does that are not able to be registered due to marking problems, but they are excellent in overall type and color with a "balance of markings" for the most part as well as being great producers.

I do send in the ARBA legs for the Grand Champion certificate when an animal is eligible. Sure it looks good on a pedigree to people who think that it matters, but mostly I do it for myself. I am just proud of my Dutch when they do well on the table which lead to the ability "grand champion" them.

I would have to guess that most Dutch breeders who don't utilize the ARBA registration system, do not because of the cost vs. the worth of a rabbit. In my opinion, other breeds that sell for more money like Hollands, Mini Rex and Netherland Dwarfs, are more apt to use the system because in their world a "registered" animal will sell for even more. This is not true in the "Dutch" world as most Dutch breeders know that having a registered Dutch rabbit does not necessarily make it more valuable. The thing that Dutch breeders get is that just because a rabbit is registered, doesn't make it a good rabbit. All it tells you is that at the time that the Registrar examined the rabbit, it was free from any disqualifications according to the breed standard.

From Kevin Hooper:

This answer will not endear me to the powers that be at the ARBA, but I do not see the need to register a Dutch, nor many other breeds! I registered one of my first Dutch 32 years ago, then thought, "What did that accomplish?"

In raising Dutch, if I produce a good Dutch out of two mismarks, it is no worse than a good one produced out of all showable stock. It would be nice if it worked that way in Dutch - breed the best marked ones to the best marked ones and get the best marked ones. However, this does not always work. It seems that some lines work with some and some with others, and having a paper that says the rabbit meets the minimum requirements to be shown tells me nothing.

If I were to start breeding rabbits by only using stock that has been registered, then I would be starting with Dutch that meet the minimum requirements! I do want

Dutch that meet the minimums! I believe you should start by going to the top breeders and seeing what they keep, and why, then get stock that you believe will fit together to produce the best Dutch.

From Allan Gerhart:

No, the fee increase won't affect us because we don't use the registration system.

There are several reasons why we don't register our Dutch. Probably the main reason is it takes too much time and effort, for what we get out of it. Raising Dutch is a hobby for me, something I really enjoy, the registration process just doesn't appeal to me as being all that enjoyable. I would rather spend time in the barn raising rabbits than doing paperwork. I don't think it would help us sell that many more rabbits anyway. We don't register our grand champions either, but we do include all the G.C. legs on our pedigrees and transfer all the winnings to any new owner so they can follow though with the process if they desire.

Since you can breed mismark Dutch and get rabbits with good marks and vice versa the registration system for the Dutch breed my not mean as much to some breeders as opposed to other breeds. I know that it wouldn't matter to me if the rabbit I was buying was a registered G. C. or not, I would still look it over along with the pedigree and base my decision on whether or not it could be beneficial to our breeding program. Although I will say that I am impressed with a breeder who uses the registration system maybe not so much of the rabbits themselves but impressed with the breeder who takes the time and dedication to register their rabbits. I would like to know the percentage of members who do use the registration system??

From Bob Bergene:

The recent fee increase for registering rabbits will certainly be welcomed by registrars, as it can be time consuming to register and process the paperwork. For the rabbit breeder, there might result in fewer rabbits being registered, as the breeder might get more selective in registering the rabbits. Currently the new fee still represents a small amount when considering the value of the breeding or show rabbit and the enhancement it gives to the animal. However, some of the lower end value rabbits might not get registered as a result of the fee increase. As for me as an ARBA registrar and Dutch breeder, I do not register a single one of my Dutch rabbits. When I raised the big white breed 20 years ago (NZ), I took great pride in having red, white and blue pedigrees. (This is when everyone of the three generations where registered.) The paper would get a red white and blue sticker. If the rabbit would have an ear cut or a missing toenail, I would not keep it for breeding stock. If I would use that selection policy in my current Dutch herd of does, I would have to eliminate about a third of them, and these are my best producers. You see, I would not be able to register the doe with split stop or the drag on the fore leg. Therefore, I choose not to register my Dutch, but instead tend to select for type and disregard markings slightly when looking for replacement breeding does. However, I would encourage breeders to register their rabbits as I believe it enhances the value of the rabbit in the eyes of the buyer.

"I just bought some Dutch rabbits that I want to show, but I am confused about feeding. Some people tell me to buy high protein for the feed and some say regular protein. Some say to feed hay, others say they don't need it. I have heard that show animals should have sunflower seeds, linseed oil, wheatgerm oil, oats, calf manna, etc. Others say I should not feed vegetables like carrots and lettuce. I would like to know what people who successfully breed and show rabbits feed."

Hope all is well with everyone in the Dutch rabbit world and your nest boxes are full of bunnies for NDS. I don't know about you, but I have had a very hard time with breeding since convention. I guess it is because of the crazy weather we have been having. I have never had this much trouble before. Needless to say, I am disappointed as I will not have much to show at NDS. Here it is going to be in my own backyard so to speak, and it looks like I'll be working most of the show instead of showing most of the show. I don't even have any pet bunnies to sell to the pet store for gas money. Now that is really bad. I am going to have to start walking pretty soon to school. HAHA!

Let me know if anyone else out there has had as much trouble or if anyone has any ideas on how to keep this from happening again. Don't forget to let me know of any wins or issues you may have at the shows that are coming up in February and March for the next newsletter. I need input. If you have pictures, get those to me too. This is as much your article as it is mine. I represent you-the youth breeders of our district.

Are there any youth breeders out there planning on holding a rabbit workshop this year in their area? It is a great way to promote the Dutch and the rabbit industry by giving away bunnies to help 4-Hers or any other youth looking to start showing bunnies for the first time.

I noticed on the website that there are not very many youth breeders taking advantage of advertising their bunnies. I was able to help a 4-H boy in the southern Illinois area because I advertised on the website. I am the only one listed in Illinois, and I know there are many others in Illinois who have Dutch bunnies to sell. Get your name out there and promote your Dutch. I am sure Julie would be happy to help you get set up.

Until next time

TREVOR

P.S. I want to apologize for leaving out the winner in torts in our District. This is my favorite color and can't imagine how I did that. Congrats goes to Rachel Zimdars-Tort BOV/BOSV/Best Sr. Also congrats to all youth in all the Districts for a job well done. Look forward to seeing you at NDS in Bloomington.

DUTCH INVADE HARRISBURG, PA.

by John Graybeal

Dutch are really becoming popular in the state of Pa. This January, the Pa Farm Products show (equal to most states state fair) was held. Over 1200 rabbits were judged in open and youth combined. Of that total number there over 125 Dutch. That was enough to Keep Judge Pam Nock busy for almost the enter show.

It was a lot of fun to show such a nice entry of Dutch at our state fair. And it was particularly nice to see the winners. In Open, Aaron Martin won both the BOB and BOS awards, while in the Youth, Dylan Lape won BOB with a very nice Steel Buck and his brother Daulton won BOS with a Gray Doe.

The nice thing was to see Dylan's Steel Buck go on to capture both Best Four Class and Best in Show. The Best in Show judge was heard to comment about this buck .."that is the cleanest marked Dutch he had ever seen". When you see Dylan next time, ask him about the history of that Steel Buck, he has a real story to tell you.

If it's not Dutch....it's not much. And the Dutch breeders seem to continue to prove that here in Pa.

Sweepstakes and the Web

We have been informed that there have been several requests to provide updates for the sweepstakes on a monthly basis to be posted on the ADRC website.

With the increasing popularity and use of the internet and websites, it seems many are wanting more information to be provided at an ever increasing rate of speed.

Although the internet can be accessed in the blink of an eye, a website pulled up to gather information just as quickly, and files uploaded onto a web site in just a few seconds, none of that helps to produce the files to be uploaded any faster. It still takes the same amount of time to export data from the sweepstakes program and format it into web ready information.

Possibly at some point, the process can be expedited and the files made ready in a more timely manner, but for now, the updates for the sweepstakes to appear on the website will be conducted in unison with the publishing of the Dutch Reporter, and as they always have been, on a quarterly basis.

Every effort will be made to provide additional updates between the quarterly commitment, however there are no guarantees at this time.

With the posting of the show reports on the website that have not been received from shows held in 2007, we have received a number of contacts.

It is good to see the exhibitors making efforts to get the delinquent reports sent in. However, as with anything that involves a human element, some shows listed were listed in error. A couple of the shows that had 2007 dates are actually shows that will be held in 2008, however the computer files we received indicated the shows as being held in 2007.

Also, we have been contacted regarding shows that the exhibitors felt were sanctioned, when in actuality they were not. All too often I see clubs have multiple shows, whether all breed or all breed in conjunction with a specialty show, and they will only apply for one Dutch sanction.

I would caution that if you are assuming a show has a Dutch sanction, or even if it is listed as such in a show catalog, you might wish to contact the show secretary and confirm that all shows are Dutch sanctioned. Too many secretaries do not even look at sanctions they receive until after their show, and then find out that something is missing. That is not the fault of the exhibitor or the sanction person for the club.

We have had a couple of situations where Dutch sanctions were not applied for, and then the show sponsors requesting the shows be sanctioned several months after it took place. The current procedure is that NO show sanctions are issued if they are not received with a postmark and payment PRIOR to the date of the show.

If you have plans on paying for a Dutch sanction for a show, you should get the show information necessary to request and process the sanction from the show sponsoring club, and send it in yourself. This will guarantee the Dutch sanctions for the show have been requested prior to the show date.

Points for show reports received are recorded as the names are listed on the reports. If you show in combination with someone, you should insure the show secretary has your name/s listed properly, and doesn't just list the first name on the entry form. If you receive a report back from a show that does not list each person's name on it, then you should contact that show secretary and ask that they correct the problem and insure the proper information is sent here for recording. Although we know many of you show in combination with someone else all the time, the legal entry according to the ARBA is how the name/s are listed on the entry form.

By the time you receive this issue of the DR, we will hopefully have all outstanding show reports, and a finalized sweepstakes standing. What will be considered the FINAL SWEEPSTAKES STANDING for the 2007 year will be posted on the ADRC website at the very earliest possible time.

We wish to Thank everyone that has contacted us with questions or concerns regarding the sweepstakes. We have done our very best to resolve all situations and to reply in an expedient manner. Should you have questions or concerns regarding the sweepstakes, please do not hesitate to contact us at any time.

Congratulations to the winners of the 2007 sweepstakes, and good luck in 2008 to all members.

Summer will soon be upon us. Let's hear from everyone with your tips and secrets for getting your rabbits through the hot months.

We are looking for good pictures to use in the Dutch Reporter. Please submit any Dutch related pictures for possible use in the upcoming issues. Pictures can be submitted electronically by emailing them to rwgehr@cbcast.com, or by sending regular snapshot photos to Richard Gehr (address on page 1).

Not all photos can be used, and if you wish to have a photo returned to you, please indicate so when sending it.

When entering shows, please make sure to fill out your entry form and remark cards completely. Points are recorded under the name/s which appear on the show report. If you show in combination with another person/s, it is always a good idea to mention this to the show secretary, so they will list your name properly in their records.

If you do show in combination with others, and receive a report back from a show you have attended that may not have all of the names on the report, please contact that show secretary and advise them of the incorrect listing. That may prevent us from receiving a sweepstakes report that would be recorded incorrectly.

If you have questions regarding this situation, please contact Norma Hart or Dick Gehr.

News from Publicity

With a new year comes an entire new inventory for the ADRC Publicity group. For those of you that have not heard Dan Monahan and I (Todd Uran) took over the job after much “encouragement” from club members. We knew it would not be the funniest thing we have ever done but we will do our best. We have been in the process of getting new items and we are working with some new suppliers. We took in a lot of feedback from you the members on what you wanted to see so we hope we covered at least most of your request. We have a wide range of new clothes this year in a wide assortment of sizes including a lot in the adult’s larger sizes and a wider variety in children’s sizes.

Be on the lookout for the new items on the ADRC website. The online store tab will soon have items to view. We have been getting some request for patches and pins that are going to be used as awards which I think are great ideas. The way purchasing items online will work has not all been ironed out just yet but at a high level here it is. You will view the items, send me an email (there will be a link to my email on the site) place your order in the email to me. I will get you the total price including shipping and send you an email with that information. I will also copy Barb Kline on that email. You will then need to settle with Barb and once she confirms that the money has been received we will ship your order. Perhaps in the future we will have payment options on the site but there is cost involved with that so for now we will try this system. I encourage everyone to take a look at the new items once they are on the site. If you would like to order and pay for items in advance of the NDS we can bring them along and you can save the shipping cost. Now keep in mind we are not a department store so we do not have lots of any one item so if you see something you like I suggest ordering it. If you want something you don’t see let us know and we will see what we can do but I am not making any promises but we will do what we can.

We look forward to seeing everyone in Illinois and selling a lot of items so we can all show off the fact that we have the best club, the best breed, and the best members therefore we should have the best publicity items.

News from the Scholarship Committee:

It is that time of year again where those eligible should be getting their information together and sending in their scholarship applications. Please make sure to go the ADRC website and download the current application, review the eligibility and the deadlines for sending in your applications. I can not emphasize enough to follow these simple steps. Make sure to complete every section of the application and provide all the required documentation. As with any application process only the ones that meet all the requirements will be eligible so it is worth the time to review every detail.

The current eligibility information and deadline information is included in this addition of the Dutch Reports.

Recipe for success or failure.....

by Rick Billups

Many new breeders today are unsuccessful when they first adventure into the task of trying to raise competitive Dutch rabbits. The biggest piece of advice I can give from years of trying to raise Dutch is to start off with animals that are somewhat related. For instance, let's say someone buys two does from a breeder but has to purchase their herd buck from a totally different breeder whose bloodline doesn't match at all. To me the new breeder would be better off to purchase the does and pay a little extra to have the does bred to a buck that is related and then keep the best two bucks out of the litters for future use. Breeding these young bucks back to the does will tell you if you have the foundation of a good strain of rabbits. This scenario plays out so often at our Sells Class when animals are purchased by potential Dutch breeders for a minimal investment. They walk away with animals from several breeders with the hopes of breeding a winner or being competitive on the show table but often find nothing but discouragement in the nest box.

How important are markings when buying breeding stock? A well marked rabbit without type is no better than a rabbit that should end up in the frying pan. I personally believe it is of the utmost importance that you start with foundation stock that has the best Dutch type possible. The body type has been greatly improved over the past 10-15 years and is now consistent throughout all of the varieties. I look at color and fur next and then eye color to ensure the color meets the description set by the standards. Many times a light colored eye or portions of the eye having different shades could indicate an undesirable cross somewhere in the background.

I feel the herd buck is the most important investment a breeder will make when starting their Dutch herd. A good herd buck should have ideal body type, color and markings free from any disqualifications. I will normally keep a buck that has ideal body type unless it has two or more of the following marking faults;

1. Very long stops
2. Very biased saddle
3. Jagged undercut
4. Hooked cheeks

There are several things to watch for when buying breeding stock, I just hope these few sentences will give you something to think about. Always seek out the advice from an established breeder and someone you can trust when looking at breeding stock. I've always found it easier to get a 2nd or 3rd opinion from friends for they may see something I've overlooked.

2008 National Dutch Show ~ April 11 - 13 Bloomington, Illinois

Sponsored by the Illinois Dutch Rabbit Club

We hope everyone has their reservations made for the 2008 NDS in Bloomington. We have requested excellent weather, and have high hopes of another banner event for the Dutch Rabbit.

I would like to address one of the concerns that has been mentioned since the printing of the last Dutch reporter, Sales animals at the NDS.

Not knowing the number of animals that we will have entered, it is impossible for us to guarantee there will be ample sales coops for everyone. We prefer not to commit to sales coops until after the entry has been received, and we would know for sure that we had the pens to use for sales animals. If cooping is available after the entry numbers have been determined, then we will have cooping available for animals you wish to bring for sale.

If you care to include a note with your entry advising as to how many "Sales" coops you would like "IF" they become available, we will try our best to accommodate everyone. If the cooping is not available however, we will have an area in the showroom for the sales animals if you choose to bring them. It will be necessary to provide a carrier for the animals that is ample in size for the weekend. There will be no charge if the rabbits are kept in carriers. If the cooping does become available, due to the cost we incur for rental and set-up of the cooping, the Sales coops will be $4.00 per animal. Sales rabbits can be paid for once you have arrived. Please do not send any fees for sales rabbits with your entry.

Entry fees for the National Dutch Show will be $6.00 per animal (open and youth). Fur class entries will be $3.00 per animal (open and youth).

Karen Craig and Debbie Marquis are working on youth activities, Theresa Schwandt will be handling the Friday night classes, (no "Fun" classes scheduled) and we have a number of individuals lined up to ramrod tables on Saturday. Naturally, any additional assistance offered would be appreciated.

The NDS catalogs will be mailed around the first week of March. This will allow ample time for the USPS to get it to you and for you to return it by the entry deadline.

Please feel free to email either Norma Hart or Richard Gehr if you have questions or concerns regarding the NDS.

We would again like to list some of the more important information for your use.

Scheduled Dutch Judges: Open: Scott Williamson, CA; Dr Chris Hayhow, KS; Glen Carr, IL; Marvin Wunderlin, IL - Youth Judges: Erik Bengtson, IA; and another to be announced.

Concession Stand - No food may be brought in to the Interstate Center from outside vendors or other. Unfortunately, this is an Interstate Center Mandatory regulation.

Feed - Will be provided for the weekend

Shavings - Farm & Fleet in Bloomington *Due to fire code and Interstate center regulations, no straw will be allowed in the building.

For your convenience, an Equipment Dealer will be available on site - Koenigs Kountry Supplies

Banquet - Place; Interstate Center Banquet Room; Coctail Hour 6:00 PM; Meal 7:00 PM

NDS BANQUET

Held in the banquet room of the Interstate Center on Saturday evening April 12, 2008 at 7:00PM

Pasta Bar

Penne and Bowtie Pasta with Marinara and Alfredo Sauces

Italian Sausage with Peppers and Onions

Sauteed Chicken Breast

Fresh Parmesan Cheese, Tomatoes and Mushrooms

Tossed Green Salad

Coffee and Iced Tea

Dessert

Adults and Youth - $18.00

*THE INTERSTATE CENTER CATERER NEEDS AN ADVANCE COUNT OF THOSE IN ATTENDANCE. THEREFORE, NO TICKETS WILL BE SOLD AT THE NDS

Check In Time: Beginning at 12:00 Noon on Friday. No rabbits will be accepted before 12:00 noon on Friday April 11. Additional building rental fees would be necessary to allow Thursday acceptance, thus no check in is available for Thursday.

Showroom Close times: Promptly at 10:00 PM Friday and at 5:00 PM Saturday (reopens Saturday morning at 6:30 and Sunday morning at 6:30).

Entries: Must be in hand no later than March 31st in order to be accepted. Entries not marked as to open or youth will be entered in open division. This is a No ear number entry system.

The DO's and DON'T's of Showing taken from the Bunny Hutch News (newsletter of the Long Island RBA, NY)

The DO's of Showing

1. Check the weather the night before the show so that you'll know whether or not to bring anything extra for the rabbits, yourself, or your car.
2. Bring a copy of the entry form. If there's a mistake in the pre-entry show, you can straighten it out more easily if you have the entry form. For entries on the day of show, bring a list of the rabbits you're going to show and the ear number of each so that you can fill out the forms faster.
3. Get to the show in plenty of time before it starts so that you aren't rushed. Your rabbits can feel your tension and will react, IMO.
4. Bring some kind of treat for your rabbits to munch on. Even though most people won't become distressed at the new surroundings, your rabbits might. They'd probably enjoy a hay cube, some grass hay, or a slice of apple or carrot, and it would help reduce their stress. Be sure to bring something for them to drink from, too.
5. Try to get a good night's sleep. Rest can be the difference between having a good show day for yourself and a day that you can barely squint through. No sense in putting you or your animals at risk from a bad night's sleep. If you have to, take a cat nap after your breeds are judged so that you can drive home safely.
6. Bring an extra empty carrier for that unexpected purchase. It's better to bring an extra empty hole than to try to squeeze two rabbits in one hole. Think safety.
7. Have a first-aid kit and your grooming kit. It's better to have the kits on hand and not use them, than to have an emergency pop up and be lost without them.
8. Above all, remember that it's not what you win but how you win it. Please be a gracious winner and a gracious loser. We all win and lose from one show to the next. Nobody's perfect.

The Don'ts of Showing

1. Don't get mad and start bad-mouthing the judge just because you didn't win. Remember, he/she is just a person who's giving an opinion of your animal on that given day.
2. Don't bad-mouth a rabbit that the judge is judging. In other words, don't point out something that you see and the judge doesn't. Most people would look at this as trying to sway the judge's opinion or as cheating. Remember, you're not the one that holds the judging license.
3. Don't forget your tattoo kit for those tattoos that always seem to disappear at the wrong time.
4. Don't let the judge know which animal is yours. For instance, don't say to the judge, "Remember when you gave this doe a BOB (Best of Show) when she was only four months old? Look at her now." If you do this, you could have your entire entry DQ'ed (disqualified) from the show. I know that this sounds crazy, but I've seen it happen more than once.
5. Don't fake your rabbit. This simply means do not alter the appearance of your rabbit by plucking stray white hairs, putting anything on the toenails to make them match or to make darker, etc. If you're caught, it means the disqualification of your entire entry at the show.
6. Don't blame anyone if you miss the judging for your class of rabbits. You need to pay attention to when and where the judging is for your breed. Listen to announcements of breeds being called. If you can't hear, go and ask repeatedly what breed is up. Remember, missing your class is a bummer, but it's not the end of the world.
7. Don't be a poor sport. Winning at all costs isn't a desirable trait when it comes to show people.
8. Above all, don't bring an animal to the show that's sick. It isn't fair to the other owners or their rabbits. You'd be pretty upset if someone caused your healthy rabbits to get sick or if you lost one due to the illness.

Comfrey Power

Improve your soil, prevent disease, mulch your plants, and enhance your compost with this powerhouse of a plant.

The rabbits love the Comfrey leaves and it seems to help when they aren't feeling well. written by Jean Nick (re-printed from www.organicgardening.com)

I have my own little organic fertilizer factory, cranking out free mulch, compost activator, and a potent plant food.

The fuel for this factory is Russian comfrey (Symphytum X uplandicum). It has 6-foot-long roots that harvest nutrients from deep in the soil; making comfrey leaves a fantastic natural source of nitrogen, phosphorus, and potassium.

Researchers in British Columbia analyzed the NPK (nitrogen, phosphorus, and potassium) ratio of comfrey leaves by air-drying them and analyzing the powdered leaf tissues. They found that the leaves have an impressive proportion of 1.8-0.5-5.3. To compare, kelp meal has an NPK ratio of 1.0-0.5-2.5, and homemade compost ranges from 0.5-0.5-0.5 to 4-4-4 (depending on what ingredients you use). Comfrey is also rich in calcium and many other valuable plant nutrients it mines from deep in the subsoil.

Harnessing the Power

Mulch. Freshly cut comfrey leaves make good mulch because they're high in nitrogen, so they don't pull nitrogen from the soil while decomposing, as high-carbon mulches like straw and leaves do. And comfrey's high potassium content makes it especially beneficial for flowers, vegetables (such as tomatoes, peppers, and cucumbers), berries, and fruit trees. Michelle DeFord, owner of Crimson Sage Nursery, in Colton, Oregon, has mulched her stock herb plants with comfrey for 25 years because it boosts seed yields. For home gardeners, this means increased flower and fruit production. But using comfrey to mulch root crops (like carrots) or leafy greens (like lettuce and spinach) may encourage them to go to seed prematurely.

Soil amendment. Use freshly cut comfrey leaves (but not the flowering stems in this case—they can root) as fertilizer in planting holes. The leaves break down rapidly and provide nutrients right at the roots.

Compost activator. Comfrey is especially useful if you have lots of dry brown material and the pile is slow to heat up. Just layer the fresh comfrey leaves and stems in as you add other material to your pile. leaves and stems in as you add other material to your pile.

Liquid fertilizer. One of the best ways to tap your fertilizer factory is to brew comfrey tea. Fill a barrel or trash can about halfway with fresh comfrey, add water, cover it, and let it steep for 3 to 6 weeks. Comfrey tea smells foul, so brew it away from sensitive noses (yours or your neighbors). The tea may be used full strength or diluted to about half strength—to the color of weak tea. Use it whenever you water your plants. It's great for watering stressed plants to help get them back on track, reports Jerome Osentowski, director of the Central Rocky Mountain Permaculture Institute, in Basalt, Colorado.

You can also make liquid fertilizer concentrate by packing fresh-cut comfrey tops into an old bucket, weighing them down with a big rock or a plastic bag of water, covering tightly, and waiting a few weeks for them to decompose into a lovely thick black goo. Some gardeners put a hole in the bottom of the bucket and collect the concentrate in another container as it drips out. Dilute this comfrey concentrate about 15 to 1 with water, and use as you would comfrey tea. You can seal this concentrate in plastic jugs until you are ready to use it.

Pest prevention and control. Scientists at Moscow State University in Russia observed that powdery mildew spores that landed on wheat seedlings sprayed with comfrey tea did not germinate, and the wheat seedlings did not become infected. The researchers concluded that the comfrey tea sprays had activated natural defense mechanisms in the wheat seedlings, making them more resistant to disease. This summer, researchers at the Rodale Institute, near Kutztown, Pennsylvania, are conducting controlled experiments testing comfrey tea as a preventive for powdery mildew on sage grown in the greenhouse.

To use comfrey tea or diluted comfrey extract as a foliar drench or spray, add a few drops of liquid soap (it helps the spray stick to leaves) and apply it to your plants. You can use a watering can with a fine rose, but you'll get better coverage with a garden sprayer. Be sure to strain your liquid very carefully (let it drip through a large coffee filter) before you put it in your sprayer, or you'll clog up the nozzle before you even get started. When you spray your plants, don't coat just the tops of the leaves; reach under and spray the bottoms, too, at least until the liquid starts to run off.

Easy to Grow

If you're now ready to put comfrey to work in your garden, wait until you find out how little it expects from you. Russian comfrey is a hardy perennial (USDA Plant Hardiness Zones 3 to 9) with large, hairy leaves; long, fleshy roots; and clusters of small cream, pink, or blue flowers. Unharvested plants grow to about 3 feet tall and wide. Comfrey spreads rather enthusiastically both by self-seeding and sprouting from even small sections of severed root. You can prevent this by planting only sterile cultivars such as 'Bocking 14' and not digging or cultivating around your comfrey.

Comfrey grows best in full sun or partial shade. It thrives in clay soil with plenty of moisture but tolerates a wide range of conditions. Once established, it is difficult to get rid of, so choose a site where it can stay. Six plants are enough for most gardeners, which means allowing a planting space of about 6 by 10 feet or 3 by 20 feet. Don't plant comfrey in any area you cultivate, as breaking off bits of root will create oodles of new plants. Remove any perennial weeds in the bed. Plant root cuttings or plants about 3 feet apart either in spring or fall, and keep the soil moist until plants are well established. Don't harvest the first year, and cut off any flower stalks that form, as your plants need to establish a good root system.

If you have a small yard or you're concerned about comfrey taking over your garden, grow it in large trash cans. Just cut drainage holes in the bottom of each can, fill with a soil and compost mix, and plant.

Comfrey produces huge quantities of leaves during the growing season (4 to 5 pounds per plant per cutting) and will happily soak up any nitrogen-rich fertilizer it's given, though it grows just fine without extra feeding. Eileen Weinstein, regenerative garden design specialist at the Rodale Institute, maintains a thick layer of grass clippings around the plants, which keeps her patch producing more top growth than she can use.

Although 'Bocking 14' Russian comfrey is sterile, individual plants will expand, so divide them every few years if your patch is getting crowded. Don't even dig them up; just slice through each one with a sharp spade while it's in the ground. Replant the sections you remove or share them with friends, but don't put the roots in your compost pile, or you'll have comfrey plants popping up everywhere next year. Harvesting Comfrey is ready to harvest when it is about 2 feet tall or starts to form flower stalks. Depending on your climate, you will probably get four or more harvests a year. Cut off the whole plant about 2 inches above the ground with pruners or a sickle. Be sure to wear gloves and long sleeves when harvesting comfrey, as some people find it irritates their skin. After harvesting, give your comfrey a good watering and renew the mulch layer.

Jean Nick gardens organically on 11 acres overlooking the Delaware River in eastern Pennsylvania with her partner, Tom, and her two children.

FEEDING ORPHANED KITS

Most of us have had an orphaned rabbit, maybe a single one, sometimes a whole litter. Too young to wean, they should still be nursing on Momma. We try to avoid this by breeding 2 or 3 does at a time so we always have a doe to foster an orphan. But you know what they say about the "best laid plans"... "stuff" happens. Until recently, we have tried to nurse the babies using a commercially available formula called "KMR" (Kitten Milk Replacement made by PetAg), available in powder or liquid. This is what our vet suggested. But they would fight the nipple, dropper, or syringe and refused to swallow it. Even when we could get it into them, we have lost better than 95% of the babies we tried this on. Last month, we lost a Flemish Giant Doe with a 15 day old litter of 4. I couldn't foster them on another doe. But I found a different commercially prepared formula that seems to work really well. It's called "JUST BORN, Advanced Formula Milk Replacer for Kittens - Plus Colostrum", made by Farnam Pet Products. Also available as a liquid or a powder, it was readily accepted by the babies. Rather than use a bottle with a nipple, I used a feeding syringe, just behind the front teeth. I was able to accurately see how much each baby was eating. I fed them twice a day, starting at 15cc each per feeding, gradually increasing the quantity, based on what they seemed to want. At 4 weeks old, I began bringing them their Formula in a bowl for them to lap up. They loved it! Their weight is on par with a litter that has been nursed, and they are switching to pellets and rolled oats. They are all very healthy and doing well. Now at 6 weeks, I have switched them to a Second Step Formula (made by KMR). Normally, we don't wean our Flemish Giants until they are 8 weeks old, unlike smaller breeds that are weaned at 6 weeks. I am very pleased with the results of this different Milk Replacer and wanted to share my success. I would really like to hear from anyone that has tried this or any other product.
