1960 NATIONAL DUTCH SHOW

by Don Guthrie

Your National Dutch show committee has been "stirring up the dust" these past weeks getting things in readiness for the big show in Harper, Iowa on April 9-10.

The showroom arrangements are completed and we believe you will be most pleased with the convenience of these facilities. The room where the coops will be set up is large enough to take care of this show with single deck coops and still have "arguing space" in the aisles. And there is a comfortable refreshment bar or lounge downstairs. The women will have a comfortable place to relax and visit if they tire of watching the judging, and it will be convenient for any losers who can't bear up under the beating and want to get away from it all.

The banquet will be a family style meal so everyone will be guaranteed plenty to eat unless they are bashful. Who ever heard of a reticent Dutch breeder? The price is very nominal, $2.00 for adults and $1.00 for youngsters under 12 years of age. You can afford to feed your relatives at these prices.

Ray Grables and Jerry Leisenring have accepted the judging assignments and this means that the placements will be handled efficiently. These men have the confidence and respect of everyone and your committee has high hopes of a large entry of top quality Dutch so they will have a day's work cut out for them.

The catalog has gone to the printer and will be in the mail just as soon as possible. We believe that you will agree that Roger Eich has done a tremendous job in a short time when you see the list of specials. Besides the fine trophies and ribbons there is over $500 in special money just waiting here for you and your Dutch to come and get. You had better enter a few extra ones and win a "bundle", while you're at it.

Motel space can be reserved at the following two motels and rates are: Sunrise Motel, Sigourney, Iowa, single $6.00 to $8.00; Fairlane Motel, Sigourney, Iowa, one person $6.00 to $8.00, two people $8.00 to $9.00, three people $10.00.

John Miller has the show superintendents work all arranged and will have the coops up and ready for all you "early birds" on Friday. C. Jay Miller has his pencils all sharpened and is waiting to start working the entries as soon as they begin coming in. Yes, everything is ready - - we're just waiting for you and your Dutch. It doesn't matter how good the arrangements are or how lucrative the pay-back is, the

by J. Russell Hall
Publicity Director

One of our more recent "new members" occupies the spotlight this month, together with his wife Emilie and three boys. His name is Harry Anthony, Jr. and he lives in Meriden, Conn., called "the Silver City of the World". This is for the reason that it is the home of the International Silver Co. Harry works for that company as an "assistant roller" in the rolling mill division.

About three years ago the boys wanted rabbits, so Harry purchased a trio and started going to shows. These were not A.R.B.A. sanctioned shows and had poor judging. After a few of those with some disappointments, Harry and family started attending the sanctioned shows, and winning a few prizes and meeting some nice people. These good times caused them to want "more of the same".

Since then they have been winning, and also have formed a local club to stage a county fair show. Harry's Dutch were in evidence at Syracuse, his doe taking Best Blue Senior and Best Blue. Harry also donated three sets of silverware for prizes.

The Anthonys have about 20 rabbits most of the time - sometimes more - what they don't sell goes into the freezer. They haven't had luck in getting litters this winter, the same as many other breeders, but they all like the rabbits and hope to ship some to the National Dutch Show.

Harry underwent surgery for kidney stones the Sunday after returning from Syracuse and was confined to the hospital for five weeks, but is O.K. now. Emilie and the oldest boy cared for the stock, and he says they did a fine job. He said they all enjoyed the Convention and meeting so many nice people, and hope to meet many of them again.

SECRETARY'S CHIT-CHAT

by J. Weinhardt

Boy, will I be glad to see the end of this winter! Although it has moved along fairly rapidly and the weather has been better than some winters we have experienced here in southern Michigan, I will still be glad to see it end. I'm getting anxious to go out and dig into that compost pile I made from my rabbitry waste last summer, and see just what it will do for my strawberries and flowers this summer. For the past day or so, we have been snowed in for the first time this winter, but we rather enjoyed it, especially the boys, with no school buses being able to get through! The snowplow went through last evening, so unless we get some more as the weather man predicts over the week-end, we are again members of the community.

Our rabbits have withstood the winter in fine shape - we only lost one adult rabbit all winter and have oodles of babies to pick from for the spring shows - and speaking of spring shows - I can hardly wait for them to begin! In our state there are no shows from the first week-end in November until the middle of March and I sure miss getting together with all of my "rabbit" friends.

I have an excellent report to make this month on the mimeograph fund. Donations have been coming in in fine fashion and I have the following to report since last month: Harold Thayer, $1.00; Don Reid, $5.00; E. E. Jacobsen, $2.00; James Collins, $2.00; Hugo Planz, $1.00; John Hutchinson, $2.00; E. P. Shilliday, $2.00; Jay Snivley, $1.00; J. C. Lowit, $1.50; Anon., $1.00; G. A. Burke, $3.00; Hulda Ohlemacher, $1.00; Mrs. C. L. Roberts, $1.00; Stan Goeglein, $1.00; Harold Shingler, $2.00; Mrs. E. P. Hall, $2.00; George Kiebach, $1.00; and Maynard Roof, $2.00. We still have an unpaid balance due of $52.00 and I sure would like to see the membership take care of this balance by donations as I have made my brags that I was certain you would all come through with enough so that not one penny of the cost would have to come out of the general fund. PLEASE DON'T LET ME DOWN, and make me out a liar!

Our Publicity Director, J. Russell Hall, informs me that he has recently received quite a supply of the Special Dutch issue of Small Stock Magazine that we sponsored a number of years ago. This magazine is just full of fine articles by some of our outstanding Dutch Breeders, both past and present, and would be a fine item to offer prospective members. It has been suggested that these magazines be placed in the hands of our various State and Area Dutch Clubs for distribution. With the Publicity Fund in its present financial position it would not be possible to just mail these magazines out in bundles of ten or twelve with the Pub. Fund standing the cost, but if any State or area Club would be willing to defray this cost, they could be supplied. I suggest that you instruct your secretaries to write Mr. Hall (address on page 1) for further information, if you are interested in obtaining these magazines. Another point to bear in mind is that it seems inadvisable to tackle a new Special Dutch issue as long as we still have a supply of the old ones - so let's see what we can do about getting them distributed. I feel sure that Mr. Hall, along with myself, can probably quote the material in these magazines practically word for word, so let's get them into the hands of people who do not know what they say and might profit by the information so available.

We here in Michigan, along with many others, including your ARBA officers are deeply concerned with what the rabbit clubs are doing to themselves and their members by the practice of holding what amount to private shows. By this I mean shows where you take your rabbits in on the morning of the show, have them judged from the crates and as soon as your breed is judged, loading them in your car and taking off. (Any of you who attended the National Dutch Show in Hamburg last spring, and stayed over for the local show held in conjunction with it, will know exactly what I mean.) It is my personal feeling that*does not secure, either a new breeder, or a member for one of the rabbit organizations, local club, ARBA, or one of the Specialty clubs, is a complete failure. The only way this potential failure can be overcome is by making a two-or more-day show exactly that and by advertising it locally as such; holding it in a spot easily available to persons other than exhibitors, and arranging to have the rabbits on display during the time advertised, so that when people come in to "just look around" they won't be confronted by an empty space or a room full of empty coops. Who knows, one of those "lookers" might have been a potential breeder looking for stock to buy and a club to join. Believe me, we are only hurting ourselves. *any show

DUTCHENG TIPS

Breeding Black and Blue Dutch

by Tom Shufflebotham

(As published in Small Stock Magazine several years ago.) Almost anyone you may talk to on this matter will have a different idea of breeding black and blues to improve the color. As little Johnny "staff-sergeant" Baker says, "It's just one man's opinion."

I lay no claim to being an expert on genetics, in fact I couldn't never follow the explanations I have seen on genetics. My explanation of breeding procedure is that of a very much interested breeder who has always tried to hold and improve color of both black and blue, and have acquired some very definite ideas on the subject.

There are those who will tell you that you can hold color of both by straight black to black or blue to blue breeding. However, I have never found this to be the case: I feel pretty sure of myself when I state that you must use both black and blue cross to hold and improve the color of each. It has been my experience that straight blue to blue breeding if carried to great lengths, tends to lighter blues, or mealy colored blues that fade rather easily. In the blacks, black to black matings carried too far tend to introduce rustiness.

I have and do, carry my breeding pure for several generations, but always bring in the black to blue or the blue to black. I grant that complications can arise here: the chief one is wall or speckled eyes. However, I have found a satisfactory method of combatting this hazard. I know that if you take a black that has been black bred for generations, mate it to a blue of several generations of pure blue breeding, you can expect speckled eyes in your litters. I am certain that the secret is in the fusing of the two colors.

I feel that the color in the Dutcheng strain compares favorably with the best I have seen and eye trouble is practically non-existent in my strain. In the first place the blue is considered nothing but a dilute black, which I am sure is the case. Also that blue is recessive to black, the other is the impure black (which in reality is a blue). This latter is the one that carries the best black color, it has more depth and sheen to it than the straight black. There are, in fact, very few straight breeding blacks. My best colored blacks are not the straight bred blacks but rather the impure ones. The only advantage that the straight bred black has over the other one is that it carries a little deeper eye color.

In my years of dutch breeding, I have never seen a black in a litter from two blues, regardless of how the blues were produced. Mated blue to blue, the result has always been 100% blues. On the other hand it is quite common to get blues from black to black mating. These blues are generally the best colored blues and are the ones that should be mated to blacks to improve both the color of the black and blue. Infusing the black to blue in this manner, you lessen the prevalence of eye trouble, speckled, wall and so forth. It has not proved wise for me to mate a blue of several generations of straight blue breeding into my blacks - in fact, I feel that this is where the eye trouble originates.

When mating one of the black bred blues back into the blacks the ratio of blacks in the litter will be almost 100%. They will all have black coats, but some of them will actually be blues. Some of them would be true breeding blacks and others would be blue. For this reason blues sometimes show up in the black to black matings. I have never thought it too important whether the blacks are true breeding black or not, but if you wish to find out, I would suggest that the rabbit in question be mated back to a blue. If the resulting litter is all black then the black is a pure black; however if the litter contains blues, the black is an impure black. Mated to another impure black you will get a percentage of blues in the litter. These are usually the best colored blues. The blacks, too, will be a deep black. I find the only drawback to this type of breeding, is that some of the blacks will not have the deep hazel eye color that is necessary. However, this is more than compensated for by the fact that speckled or wall eyes seldom appear in the litter.

In my experience speckled or wall eyes generally come from straight or pure-bred black matings. Perhaps an expert in genetics would go about producing the same results in a different manner. I, however, am very well satisfied with the results I am attaining by the matings as described. Many breeders and judges have asked how I get and keep the color in my black and blue stock. I hold no secrets; this is it!

RAISE DUTCH COMMERCIALY? - YES!

by Oliver Milliken

We have nothing but Dutch in our rabbitry and are raising them on a commercial basis.

If only the Dutch breeders would push the Dutch on a commercial basis - right now, instead of calling them just "fancy", they could easily make them one of the top commercial breeds.

Look at the top commercial breeds now - what have they to offer that we do not have?

We have so many advantages over the heavier breeds. 1/2 the hutch space, we have proven this. 1/2 the feed for resting does. 1/2 the feed for breeding bucks. Very few sore hocks as compared to the heavier breeds. Very few that ever have ear canker. They are much hardier and healthier, much more active, better breeding in hot weather also will produce and raise more young better in hot weather - they just simply take the heat when others won't. 60% plus, dress-out. Yes they have colored furs and we do not save ours at the present time. My argument is with the better dress-out than W.N.Z. and others, we can afford to throw away the fur.

We buy all of the Dutch we can get around here, paying 33¢ per pound live weight. It makes me sick at most of the processors, what they are paying for Dutch, due to the color.

If this and other articles I have written were not so, someone would jump me. For proof to anyone, visit our rabbitry. You are welcome.

WHAT OUR MEMBERS SAY

Attached you will find check for $5.00 to cover my 1960 dues and $2.00 towards the new mimeograph machine. It's a real pleasure to be able to read every page since you started using it.

E. E. Jacobsen

Enclosed find a check for the renewal of annual dues and a couple of dollars for the mimeo fund. A very great improvement is noted and we all appreciate it as we know that you do, too, from an operating standpoint.

Harold H. Shingler

I'm sorry you all had to give us "Hall Columbia" in the January issue of the "Dutch Reporter". It is a swell little book and I sure enjoy reading it. So enclosed find my check for $2.00 to help pay off the mimeograph machine.

James D. Collins

Your Convention Special check for $2.00 is enclosed, endorsed back to the Club. This is to go into the pot for the new Mimeograph.

For twenty three years I taught Business Education in Cleveland Schools. I was involved with the operation of such machines either directly or under my supervision when I was head of the department so I can appreciate how much enjoyment you get out of a good duplicating machine. It certainly makes it easier to get out a beautiful Dutch Reporter.

E. P. Shilliday

I have sure enjoyed my first copy of the Dutch Reporter, enclosed is two dollars to help on the mimeograph payments.

As secretary of our local club I have been struggling, mostly without much luck with an old mimeograph and sure appreciate the results of yours.

Mrs. Chester L. Roberts

Here is a buck to help with that much needed new machine. Sorry I waited so long in sending.

Stan Goeglein

Enclosed is $1.00 on the mimeo machine. I enjoy the Dutch Reporter, am a new member. Received two copies, you are doing a very fine job on it.

George Kiebach

I enjoy the Reporter very much, especially since you can read it easier. I apologize for not "kicking in" sooner, but I travel and haven't taken the time. Enclosed is $2.00 to help.
